FIVE YEARS IN CONCENTRATION CAMP

'Student Aid Vital' Says Hungarian Refugee

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Hungarian students in Austria need help—need all the assistance they can get—a former Budapest student, who spent five years in concentration camp because he opposed the Communist regime, said here today.

The ex-student, Louis Szabo, 34, who helped organize the student revolution in Hungary, arrived here Thursday from Vancouver with a group of 15 young Hungarian refugees aboard the CPR's Princess Joan.

They arrived Tuesday in Vancouver on the "Freedom Express" flight from Austria.

"I was living among 300 students in a particular quarter in Vienna before I came here," he said. "The students need help. They are impoverished."

Mr. Szabo said the Austrian people were doing all they could to help the students and refugees arriving in their country.

"Believe me, the Austrians are wonderful people," he said. "They are poor people who have suffered much due to the war and Russian occupation. They have done all within their power for us, but they can't possibly look after the thousands of Hungarians fleeing into their country."

Mr. Szabo praised The Times fund to assist Hungary's fighting students. There could not be a better cause, he said.

Beads of perspiration broke out on Szabo's forehead as he recalled the incidents which led to the student uprising in Hungary. He had taken an active part in a plot to oust the Communist regime, and one of his speeches to a student gathering helped to fan the flames of revolution.

Szabo said when the students first broke out in armed rebellion all went well and no guns were used.

"I was among them," he said, "but when they started to bring in tanks and troops of Asiatic origin all was over."

"The streets were bombed from the air," he said. "Blood flowed in the streets of Budapest. Men, women, children died."

Szabo planned to become a chemical engineer, but his studies were interrupted in 1946 when he was placed in concentration camp for opposing the Communists. He was released from the camp in 1951 and worked in various factories and towns until the revolution.

Szabo said he does not plan to continue his university training in Canada, but to develop a few inventions which he has been working on for some time.

"First I must work hard and earn some money," he said.

B.C. to Build $4 Million Fraser Span

Tenders will be called next spring for construction of a new $4,000,000 bridge across the Fraser river at Spuzzum. Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi announced today.

It will replace the Alexandra Suspension Bridge built in 1929 and will have a two-lane arch span.

"We shall build it south of the present span at a more suitable site," Mr. Gagliardi said. "It will certainly not be a toll bridge."

RED FEATHER OVER TOP FIRST TIME IN HISTORY

Greater Victoria Community Chest passed its $220,000 goal with a $300 safety margin Thursday.

It was the first time in its 20-year history that the united appeal has attained its goal.

Community Chest campaign chairman Harry Gladwell credited payroll deduction gifts and a new public acceptance of the need for the victory.

Chest president R. B. Wilson expressed thanks to the 1,600 volunteers who assisted in the campaign, especially veteran organizers Courtney Haddock and R. M. "Dinty" Moore.

A total of about $1,380 in pledges is still expected to be turned into the 1956 drive.

The first chest drive in 1937 raised $86,191. In 1949 the chest almost made its $140,000 objective, the closest to success of any year in the past.

Eden Out as PM 'Within Weeks' Experts Predict

By ADRIAN BALL

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden's prospects of remaining prime minister remained the big subject of speculation in public and private today after 15 Conservative Members of Parliament revolted and refused to back a government confidence vote in the House of Commons.

The refusal of the die-hard "Suez group," who bitterly opposed the decision to withdraw British and French troops from Egypt, to support the government Thursday night led many politicians and newspapers to report a big behind-the-scenes move to topple Eden without bringing down the government.

The government won two votes after a two-day debate on its Middle Eastern policy. First it defeated by 327 to 260—a majority of 67—a Labor censure motion.

Then it went on to win the confidence vote 312 to 260—a majority of 52.

The abstention of the 15 Tories was the most serious defection from party ranks since the Neville Chamberlain government fell early in the Second World War.

Suez Rebels Take Solid Stand

The "Suez rebels" have not hidden their belief that Eden, now in Jamaica on a three-weeks rest, should be replaced by a new leader not identified with the Egyptian withdrawal.

Some political observers say party leaders are confident of the future and pleased with the small number of Conservatives who abstained.

Eden will return from Jamaica next Friday.

The government's determination to stay in office despite the dissensions within the party and the Labor opposition's calls to "resign" was made plain by senior ministers during Thursday's debate.

R. A. Butler, lord privy seal, who has been acting as chairman of the cabinet during Eden's absence, declared: "This government has decided against

U.S. Borrows Billion For Aid to U.K.?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. treasury today announced a new borrowing of $1,000,000,000 to be used in part to defray the cost of possible financial aid to Britain.

Britain, confronted with depletion of the gold and dollar reserves by the Suez crisis, has asked for waiver of an $82,000,000 interest payment due the United States Dec. 31. Britain also has asked Canada to waive its interest payment of $22,000,000. Britain also plans to draw on the International Monetary Fund for a large sum.

The British actions will mean a loss to the U.S. treasury of cash.

The treasury accordingly announced it will invite offers for approximately $1,000,000,000 of 95-day treasury bills Monday.

The new borrowing will bring the national debt close to the $278,000,000,000 ceiling imposed by Congress.

A figure of $561,000,000 has been mentioned from the IMF. This would be in the form of a credit in U.S. dollars on which the British could draw as needed to pay for Western Hemisphere petroleum and meet other foreign exchange obligations.

Olympics' Dove of Peace Tattered and Bloodied

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer

MELBOURNE (UP)—The Olympics are supposed to promote international friendliness but the dove of peace is fluttering nervously over the games today with scorched and tattered wings.

The British are complaining that their Australian cousins haven't been friendly enough.

MRS. MARY KEIL

WHY KNIT? WHY NOT?

Nobody's Darnin' This Santa Sock

Like Texas, Victoria is gaining a reputation for producing "the biggest."

Now under construction is the biggest Christmas stocking in the world—a gargantuan size 23½—50 feet long and 25 feet in circumference.

A man, in order to wear the woolly whale of a sock, would have to be about 50 feet taller than the world's tallest totter in Beacon Hill Park.

The foot alone measures eight feet in diameter and is 20 feet from toe to heel.

Sponsored by Victoria Kinsmen Club, who will fill the red, green and white wool stocking with toys for underprivileged children, it will be hung from the ceiling at Memorial Arena Dec. 17, night of the club's giant bing.

Club members will gift wrap toys and invite Santa Claus and children selected by local welfare agencies to the arena. A trap door in the foot of the monster stocking will be opened releasing an avalanche of toys.

Makers of the yule sock are Don Mac Agencies, agents for Fair Isle Knitting Machines, 707 Johnson, who have donated 2,800 balls of wool worth $1,500. Gifts may be left at Fair Isle or taken to the bingo night.

TOLLS FOR 2ND NARROWS

B.C. Rejects Ottawa Offer

OTTAWA (BUP)—The B.C. government has decided that the Second Narrows bridge in the Vancouver area will not be part of the Trans-Canada Highway, but will be operated as a toll bridge, it was learned here.

The government wanted the federal government to:

1. Include the bridge under a new formula worked out more than a year ago whereby the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of certain Trans-Canada Highway gaps within provinces, or

2. Assume 50 per cent of the total cost of what is expected to be a four-lane bridge.

The federal authorities told B.C. that neither was possible under the Federal-Provincial Trans-Canada Highway agreements. The provincial administration, it was said here, then decided to go ahead on its own with the bridge and operate it as a toll bridge.

"That decision was its own choice," a federal government spokesman said.

Questioned in Vancouver by the Times today, Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said B.C. will sign a federal-provincial agreement with Ottawa before the deadline next Sunday.

"We are aiming to get the best possible deal we can for B.C.," Mr. Gagliardi said.

Patching West Breach Canada's NATO Goal

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson and Defence Minister Campney leave this weekend for Paris and one of the most important North Atlantic Council meetings in NATO's history.

There are other problems to be considered at the meetings next week, but Canadian officials feel the main one is to patch up holes ripped in the Western alliance by the Middle East crisis—and to seek ways of preventing such breaks in future.

They believe that some of the splits are already mending. As one indication of that, they point to the United States decision to start sending oil to Europe.

Two Years In Prison For Forgery

A Vancouver man who admitted cashing seven expertly forged cheques involving more than $700 at supermarkets in the city and Saanich within a few hours Nov. 23, will spend the next two years in the penitentiary.

George Allan Burrows was sentenced in city police court today to two years on each of five separate charges. The sentences will run concurrently.

Magistrate H. C. Hall also ordered that the sentence be concurrent with two 18-month terms imposed in Saanich court Thursday.

Burrows was sentenced to another 30 days concurrent on three charges arising out of an accident Nov. 17 when his car hit a power pole at Government and Superior.

CLERK'S TIP

He was arrested by a Saanich detective in Vancouver, following a tip from a Victoria bank clerk who happened to see one of the cheques being passed in a Gorge Road store.

A police said the cheques may have been printed on a cheque-writing machine stolen from a city office supplies firm last month.

They were all made out to "H. Stone" over the fictitious account of the Superior Logging Co. on the Bank of Commerce.

Burrows used an unemployment card in the name of H. Stone to cash the cheques.

Burrows said in Saanich court that he wanted to make restitution.

"I did not know that innocent people would have to make up these amounts themselves," he told Magistrate Hall.

suspended today because there was no point in further clearing with more snow expected. Night crews cleared most streets Thursday, leaving a light coating to provide traction for cars. If swept clean the roads would become more icy and more dangerous, he stated.

The engineer said a sudden thaw would present a far more serious hazard than more snow and efforts will be made to keep gutters clear to avoid puddles.

FEW MISHAPS

Cautious drivers continued to keep up a good record during safety week despite road conditions, but two minor accidents were recorded Thursday.

Allan Poole, 13, of 2848 Prior, received cuts and bruises when his sleigh collided with a car at Topaz and Prior. Driver of the car was Rodney Birgenham, 2974 Prior.

Sophie L. Sills, 1250 Newport, was discharged from Royal Jubilee Hospital after treatment for a leg injury received when her car collided in the snow at Oak Bay and Rockland with a car driven by Lyle M. Johnston, 1262 Beach.

At Vancouver the mercury dropped to 15 overnight as British Columbia's lower mainland remained in the grip of a cold spell. Roads were icy in patches from heavy snow falls earlier this week, though the streets of Vancouver were bare. Fraser Valley schools, closed Tuesday because of snow, reopened Thursday. High was 26.

... OLYMPICS

and the man spouted water like a harpooned whale. The Russian threw a punch and, as he was sent to the penalty box, a powerfully built man in his face was purple as he shook furious fists at the Russians.

An angry Russian drove a heel into a Hungarian's stomach and smiled happily as the Hungarian sank with a grimace of pain, bobbing up with a dazed look on his face. A Hungarian swam right over a Russian and then disappeared himself as he was pulled down by the ankles. The water churned over their heads as they thrashed about below the surface.

A Russian smashed his head backwards into eye of a Hungarian, raising a huge red welt. The crowd boomed angrily and then cheered as, with the Russian in the penalty box, Hungary scored to lead, 3-0.

The Hungarians began to "play" the officials and the gallery then, and the Gabor sisters would have been proud of their histrionics. Their faces were offended—but under the water they were busily offensive.

And then, with Hungary leading 4-0, they forgot all about the "game." Fist fights were breaking out all over the pool and it reached a climax when a raging Russian smashed his head into a Hungarian's face and blood streamed from a slashed eyebrow.

Red-hot Hungarians poured down along the edge of the pool. The Russians gathered in a protective knot and police charged along the pool to get the irate spectators back in their seats.

"The final whistle has blown in this match," worried officials announced, cutting short the game.

And, as the Russians walked off through a torrent of abuse, an officer of the Royal Australian Air Force climbed on a seat and roared:

"You ought to be pole-axed! Why don't you go back where you came from?"

(Today, Hungary defeated Yugoslavia in the final, 2-1.)

Peace at the Olympics. It's wonderful.

Olympic Oarsmen Get Gold Watches

Premier Bennett has agreed to a suggestion of Fred Hume, mayor of Vancouver, that the provincial government present $150 gold watches to all 16 members of Canada's two Olympic rowing crews and their coaches.

Strike Vote Asked By CIL Office Workers

The Labor Relations Board will be asked to conduct a supervised strike vote following rejection Thursday by 14 clerical workers at the James Island plant of Canadian Industries Limited of a conciliation board award handed down Tuesday.

Employees unanimously approved strike action in secret ballot, first of its kind ever taken by office employees in B.C.

Plant manager R. B. Carpenter said today he will ask for a LRB supervised vote and added "the company is willing to resume negotiations with the clerical workers at any time."

Main point of the contention is that the conciliation award made no provision for overtime payments on statutory holidays.

The award offered a $12.50 monthly across-the-board wage increase while the union has asked for $25 monthly. Basic CIL plant rate for office workers is now $165 monthly.

"We have asked for nothing more in the contract than is in any other similar contract," said Al Playfair, president local 15, A.I. Playfair, president International Office Employees' Union.

He termed the company attitude "paternalistic."

LONDON (Reuters)—About 1,500 British workers have been laid off and another 40,000 put on short-time weeks as a result of the fuel shortage.

In announcing this official estimate in the House of Commons Labor Minister Iain Macleod said most of the workers were from the automobile industry. He did not think other industries would be seriously hit.

Bus, taxi, and freight services all over the country are contemplating increasing their charges to offset the new peak gasoline price of around six shillings a gallon.

London transport officials spent Thursday discussing fare increases to meet the extra $2,000,000 bill imposed on them for the running of their 8,000 buses and coaches.

In Edinburgh, the Scottish Omnibus Group has decided to apply for permission to raise fares by 12½ per cent. Smaller companies all over Britain have declared service cuts, and say fare increases are "inevitable."

New Dollar Aid To NATO Allies Studied by U.S.

Marshal Plan Type of Program Envisaged; Opposition Anticipated

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is beginning a major policy review from which may emerge recommendations for a new program of dollar aid to allies in Western Europe.

High United States officials are deeply worried both by the split with Britain and France following the Egyptian crisis and by the impact on their economies of the closing of the Suez Canal and the loss of Middle Eastern oil.

Some authorities believe the U.S. may be confronted with a need to develop a new program in the pattern of the Marshall plan to restore the unity and strengthen the economic base of the North Atlantic Alliance.

Nixon May Have Given Tip-Off

Vice-President Nixon may have had the possibility of some new program in mind when, in a New York speech Thursday night, he referred to Britain's financial troubles and declared:

"I believe it is in our interest as well as theirs to assist them in this hour of difficulty, and I am confident that there will be strong bipartisan support in the Congress for granting such assistance."

While Nixon did not say so, a recommendation for such aid also would be certain to encounter strong opposition in Congress, which has been increasingly reluctant to vote purely economic aid to Europe.

At Augusta, Ga., where President Eisenhower is on vacation, his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said Eisenhower had not seen Nixon's speech in advance, but "the vice-president knows the policies of the president."

The current policy review, however, covers a wider field than possible new economic aid. It embraces the possibilities of bearing a greater share of the cost of free-world defenses and

15 YEARS AGO TODAY PEARL HARBOR ATTACKED

WASHINGTON (CP)—Fifteen years ago today—Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941—wave after wave of Japanese warplanes attacked Pearl Harbor in Hawaii and plunged the United States into the Second World War.

The 15th anniversary will be marked with ceremony but little bitterness. At Pearl Harbor itself there are few traces of the attack, except for the sunken hulk of the battleship Arizona.

Freedom for 91 Japanese war crimes prisoners still held by the U.S. was asked only Wednesday in an appeal to President Eisenhower by leading churchmen. They said other countries have released or planned to release the last of their prisoners and Christian teachings suggest the U.S. should do the same.

KILLED ON FIRST DAY ON JOB

Christmas, 5 Tots —He Just Had to Work

BALTIMORE (AP)—Robert Halley didn't feel like going back to work, but with Christmas coming and five children in the house...

Fifteen months ago, he nearly severed his right hand in an accident. Then when he was about ready to go back to work, he was in an automobile crash, and injured again. Now he was just getting back on his feet.

On his first day at work, Wednesday, he was killed when a lift-carrying steel dropped on him.

His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Halley, was dry-eyed when she talked about it Thursday.

"What's it going to be like for them, now that their father is dead?" she said, watching the five youngsters—aged two to 10—playing quietly on the kitchen floor.

"He was still pretty weak yesterday, and I asked him not to go to work, but he said, 'Betty, it's almost Christmas, and we have the kids to think of.'"

Late Thursday, the Salvation Army offered to aid the family.

"We will take care of this family at Christmas," Maj. Noel W. Ellis said. Food, clothing and toys for the children will be provided, he added.

UN COUNCIL SEAT WON BY PHILIPPINES

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The Philippines won a first-ballot victory today over Czechoslovakia for a one-year term on the United Nations Security Council.

The vote in the 79-member General Assembly was 51 for the Philippines, 20 for Czechoslovakia, Afghanistan 1, Spain 1 and Yugoslavia 1.

The Philippines had just one vote more than the two-thirds required, since only 74 affirmative votes were cast.

Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov immediately protested that the election discriminated against eastern Europe. The seat which the Philippines will occupy previously had been held by eastern European countries.

SERVED HALF TERM

Yugoslavia will vacate the seat Dec. 31 after serving the first half of a normal two-year term under a private agreement reached last year to break a deadlock between Yugoslavia and the Philippines.

Kuznetsov earlier had warned that, unless the assembly elected Czechoslovakia, he would veto any proposal to enlarge the 11-member council to take into account the admission of 19 new UN members in the last year.

The council now is made up of five permanent members—Britain, France, the U.S., Russia and China—and six non-permanent members.

Scientists have known for years that tooth decay was virtually nonexistent in some areas of Canada and the United States. The reason was a natural supply of fluoride in the drinking water. Prompted by this finding, Colgate-Palmolive created Brisk Fluoride Toothpaste. While the dental profession feels that further positive clinical confirmation is needed to establish fluoride's dramatic results when used in a dentifrice, laboratory tests indicate that it offers definite benefits.

Brisk Fluoride Toothpaste exclusively combines sodium fluoride with the previously-proven decay-fighter (Sodium N-Lauryl Sarcosinate). Together these features add up to the greatest potential advancement ever offered by a dentifrice... yours only through Brisk Fluoride Toothpaste.

Important Issue for Voters

A PART FROM OFFERING THE voters an alternative to the young aldermen seeking the single one-year by-election seat on Victoria's council, municipal nomination day has produced no surprises.

While Alderman Robert Macmillan can test the appeal of his views on the city manager question and Alderman J. Donald Smith the strength of his claims for a revision in city charges against business, qualified citizens now have the option of rejecting both and supporting former Oak Bay councillor S. Patrick Birley.

Important as these issues may seem to the individuals concerned and to their supporters, they are relatively minor in comparison to the main question placed before the voters of Greater Victoria.

The main question is presented by the Greater Victoria School Board which asks support for a $5,600,000 building referendum.

The case in favor of the referendum has been ably presented by the trustees. They have pointed to the immediate need of adequate accommodation to house the growing student population of this area.

At present, they note, 17,000 children are enrolled in grades from 1 to 12. By 1960, according to informed estimate, there will be 20,000. And at present a large number of students are being taught in substandard quarters.

After careful thought and detailed study the board has presented a building program to meet immediately foreseeable requirements. That program has received the approval of provincial authorities who must authorize half the costs on behalf of the B.C. Government.

It is a matter of some significance that the trustees standing for re-election—members of the board which unanimously endorsed the building program—have all been returned by acclamation. In Victoria, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt their policies for provision of new buildings and extensions of present buildings have received tacit support. No one came forward to oppose them.

That does not, however, automatically guarantee the passage of the referendum. It must be passed by a three-fifths majority of property-owners only.

If the qualified residents of Greater Victoria think highly enough of their trustees to return them unopposed, those same property owners now have an obligation to support their representatives in the only way that counts—by getting out to the polling stations and approving the program the trustees have drawn up.

While the school building referendum appears to be the most important of all questions before the voters of this community, it is not the only one requiring thought.

In Victoria and in Saanich the people have the opportunity to call for further study of joint services, possibly under one roof. In Oak Bay the property-owners can tell the council whether or not they would like more study on that question by their vote on the by-law for a new municipal hall.

Central Saanich, too, has an issue of significance. There the voters have the chance to support a move for a permanent arrangement with the Victoria Public Library.

Lacking the highly personal appeal of contests for chief magistrates in each district, the people of this region have still impressive decisions to make. Now is the time to reach those decisions. Polling day is the time to record them.

From Cradle Back to Blackboard

EDUCATION MINISTER LESLIE R. Peterson's appeal to former teachers to return to classrooms does not mark an innovation in policy.

It does, however, lend emphasis to current teacher needs and points to a means of overcoming staff scarcities while the province continues to encourage higher standards for teachers.

In Victoria, Vancouver and certain other points, school boards have been welcoming back married women to the teaching ranks for several years. They helped to fill the gap between the supply available from normal channels and the number of posts that had to be filled.

Under ordinary circumstances the annual loss of teachers is a matter of concern. Young women qualify for the profession, preside over classrooms for a few years and then leave the field to be married and preside over their own homes.

When the school population was relatively static, it was often possible to find replacements from the Normal Schools. The high wave of births after the war made that source of supply inadequate. Some teachers had to be induced to come here from other provinces and other countries.

In spite of this situation—a condition which saw the demand for teachers greater than the supply that could be produced within B.C.—

the province went ahead with its plans to raise teacher training standards.

This year British Columbia has embarked on its College of Education course which, while making provision to equip some young men and women as temporary teachers after a year's instruction only, encourages the bulk of the trainees to proceed to degrees in education.

As candidates take the longer course, the supply of teachers immediately available dries up. Hence the scheme to intensify recruitment of men and women—particularly married women whose children are themselves old enough to go to school—for the pressing needs of the schools now.

By next September—the beginning of the new school year—the demand will be heaviest because of the relatively small supply of one-year trainees going onto the employment market and the heavy influx of students. After the 1957-58 terms, the situation should begin to ease slightly.

The proposal to seek the return of former teachers seems practical and valuable. They can serve their communities well and, as stop-gaps, can be vital factors in bringing success to the B.C. plan of fostering higher standards for teachers through the new degree course in education.

Poor Show on the Road

IN THE HAZARDOUS DRIVING conditions caused by snow and slippery roads on Tuesday evening hundreds of Greater Victoria motorists received object lessons in how not to operate their cars in an emergency. The lessons were provided by many of the drivers themselves.

Lack of common courtesy and an apparent egotism which persuaded some that they could get through where others failed, snarled traffic and sent some automobiles into ditches.

By their own arbitrary revision of the rules of the road some motorists cut over lanes and many disregarded ordinary safety regulations.

The argument may be raised that the unusual conditions of the snowstorm provided sufficient reason for independent action. The traffic tie-up and ditched cars reflect in part the results of this independent action and lack of consideration for other people.

Some value may be extracted from the experience if motorists consider other emergencies which might arise. What, for instance, would happen if this community was faced with a Civil Defence evacuation while driving conditions were unfavorable? Or even if they were favorable? The need for speed in leaving the city then would be infinitely greater than it was Tuesday night. Could we expect something better from drivers than they showed this week? If we can't, Tuesday night's performance becomes even more chilling than the weather made it.

Shaking the Colosseum

REUTERS REPORTS FROM Rome that modern traffic is threatening the ancient monuments of that city. Particularly endangered is the Colosseum.

Before Mussolini tore down the old quarter of Rome and built a wide thoroughfare where it had been, the ancient gladiatorial arena was cushioned from the vibration of heavy traffic by rows of houses and narrow cobbled streets.

With their removal the pound of cars, trucks and other heavy vehicles sets up vibrations which began to topple heavy blocks from the upper reaches of the Colosseum.

That structure is now being reinforced with inconspicuous steel and heavy traffic is restricted in its vicinity.

These preservation measures will be applauded throughout the world. They may also draw attention to the effects of heavy traffic on other buildings. The Colosseum may not be the only structure threatened by the throbbing pulse of progress in this vehicular age.

WHEN ICE WAS NICE

By B. A. TOBIN

Skating Into the Past

IT'S quite a shock to see snow and ice everywhere when you look out in the morning. But you can soon get used to it if you stay indoors as much as possible, if necessary keeping the curtains drawn. Even indoors it will be difficult to keep your mind entirely off the conditions outside, but it will help some if you depend on memory rather than sight. For ice and snow are in the class of experiences that seem much better in retrospect than in actuality.

Tobin

By putting them far enough into the past they can even take on a certain attractiveness. The frostbitten ears and numb feet, the tingling fingers and red noses are forgotten, leaving only the fun of long-ago events in mind.

The hard icy facts are cushioned in the soft snowbanks of time. A white landscape takes on the magic quality of a Christmas card scene in which everything, although snowbound, is warm and rosy; the discomfort is forgotten and only the jollity remains.

In such a spirit the mind goes back to earlier days, when Victoria's cold spells seemed to last longer and there must have been several weeks of outdoor skating each year. At least that's the lasting impression; reality may have been much more abbreviated.

Early Starters

But I can remember when the youngsters from all over James Bay flocked to the Beacon Hill park lake to try out new or old skates and, if lucky, get into a hockey game.

There were the venturesome ones, who ducked under the police rope and pioneered new stretches of not-so-thick ice. Next day the rope would be moved back to take in the new territory, or removed altogether, and fresh crowds of whizzing skaters would move in.

The lake along the Douglas Street side seemed always to be the first part to freeze. Then the ice surface would extend around the two islands and a fine big expanse was provided at the north end.

But the test of a really cold winter was ice under the bridge, so that you could skate under the arch and into the smaller lake near the old bandstand. The water was deeper under the bridge and always froze last, if at all. The deep and shallow spots were pretty well charted by young hockey players, who had thoroughly scouted the lake with their toy sailboats the previous summer.

Now and then somebody fell in and was rushed home to thaw out. Occasionally there was a tragedy—someone went under the ice and didn't get out in time. That cast a pall over the whole lake for the rest of the season. It never seemed the same, and little knots of boys would gather for days afterwards to discuss the accident that had whisked away one of their schoolmates.

Panama Flats, of course, was a popular skating place. Less frequently the broad upper end of Portage Inlet froze over and provided enough room for dozens of hockey games without interfering with the more dignified arm-in-arm gliders.

Many a youngster, secretly seeing in himself a budding Moose Johnson or Freddie Fredrickson, zoomed down the unmarked sidelines at Goodacre Lake, stick-handled his way past the piled-up defence and whipped the battered puck between the two small heaps of discarded clothing that marked the goal.

Hockey Lawyers

There was almost as much vocal activity as muscular. Each goal was chased in with shouts of encouragement from the player's own team and equally loud cries of "offside" or "out of bounds" from the opposition.

Each score was followed by minutes of argument, appeals to the referee—usually some fellow who qualified for officialdom because he didn't have a hockey stick—and quotations from nameless authorities.

But the game always went on—it was too much fun to stop—until approaching dusk drove one player after another to the green benches on the bank to change boots and hurry home to supper.

As dark came, the ice sheet fell silent, only some older skater enjoying a final speedy spurt around the islands as alarmingly loud cracks from the ice added the tingling thrill of danger to speed his humming blades.

The Artist

A full moon would bring out evening skaters, including many a young couple who essayed their first hand-in-hand journey on ice. And always there was an elderly lone figure-skater, who twirled expertly if sedately in a quiet corner and was given a wide berth by the scurrying boys.

In somewhat later years I can remember an office party held on the ice of a Colwood Golf Club water hazard just off the Sooke Road.

By the light of a good-sized moon we played a vigorous game of hockey, using a pebble for a puck and dead fir branches for sticks. Time was called at frequent intervals for a gulp of hot rum from a thermos flask.

As I say, snow and ice seemed more fun in those days. Perhaps the climate has changed.

As Our Readers See It

Give Them Channel 8

I would like to express my total dissatisfaction with the way Channel 6 has wiped out Channel 5 and affected Channel 4.

Why should the thousands of TV owners in Victoria have to miss their favorite programs? We all paid good prices for our sets and should have the right to see what we would like to see and not compelled to spend from five to forty dollars more for gadgets to allow us to do so. There will still be no guarantee then that we can get Channel 5.

If a machine was operating in any neighborhood that interfered with radios or TV reception the government would soon step in and remove it, or have it fixed.

Why couldn't Victoria be given Channel 8, so that it wouldn't affect Channel 5 and 4? It seems that Channel 6 is only going to be a repetition of Channel 2, so in what way have Victoria TV owners gained?

I believe there will be many irate TV owners and they sure won't be watching Channel 6!

JOAN M. ADYE.

In Agreement

I very much enjoyed the letter of Mrs. Hilda G. Howard's in Saturday Times, Nov. 2, "Strength in Unity."

After so much tripe some people have tried to make one swallow, it was a treat to read a letter like that which showed there is someone with the right knowledge of what has gone on and is going on.

It's too bad it's the grossly ignorant who "yap" or write at every chance they get. I only hope they'll take notice of what can be called a master letter and keep silent until they have something worth reading or listening to.

Warmest congratulations, Mrs. Howard.
LONG TIME TIMES SUBSCRIBER.

Decide Our Own Way

I would refer to the letter from Mr. J. W. Sanders which appeared in a recent issue under the heading "Canadians" in which he states "the United States anthem is to their country not to a person, etc."

I am wondering why we are expected to follow meekly everything which is done south of the border instead of being as he says Canadians with our own thoughts and way of life. Surely everything south of the border is not perfect and I see no reason why we as Canadians should not decide in our own Canadian way the question of our flag and national anthem.

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

Moscow and the Middle East

WHEN Khrushchev and Bulganin visited Britain last April, Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden told them bluntly that Britain would fight for its vital interests in the Middle East, even against the Soviet Union. At first, the visiting Russians pretended to be shocked, saying "we came to talk about peace, not war." But in the end, the outspoken Khrushchev was almost as frank as Eden had been, and what he said has a special significance in the present situation.

The Soviet Union did not want a world war, Khrushchev said. But the Soviet Union also had natural interests and aspirations in the Middle East. And, short of war, the Soviets would do everything in their power to "liberate" the area from "the imperialists"—meaning, of course, the British and the Americans.

Khrushchev and Bulganin have been, for once, as good as their word. In an alliance of convenience with Egypt's Col. Nasser, they are doing everything in their power to eliminate British interests in the Middle East, thus reducing Britain to a third class power and destroying the Western Alliance.

Their chief instrument at the moment is Syria's Colonel Abdel Hamid Serraj. Col. Nasser is, as it were, the majority stockholder in Serraj, but the Soviets also have a controlling interest in the Serraj regime.

They exercise their controlling interest through import of Soviet arms for the regime, by the Syrian Communist party.

The immediate object of the joint Nasser-Soviet exercise is to bring down Iraq's Premier Nuri Said, and pull Iraq out of the anti-Soviet Baghdad pact.

Thus British (and American) oil resources in Iraq would be endangered. Most important, the British would be denied the base rights in Iraq which are vital to the protection of the British oil sources in the Persian Gulf, for which they are pledged to fight.

The importance which the Soviets attach to the joint exercise is suggested by the fact that attacks on the Iraqi government have now become the central theme of the Soviet propaganda line. The ultimate object of the exercise is, of course, to make the Middle East a Soviet satrapy.

That some such move would be the immediate consequence of Col. Nasser's triumph in the Suez Canal dispute was entirely predictable, and was, indeed, repeatedly predicted in this space.

Washington administration officials, asked what the United States would do in these circumstances, waffled. But now they are right up against the gun, for the question has got to be answered one way or another.

Logically, the answer might be found in the famous "Dulles doctrine." Secretary of State Dulles has repeatedly proclaimed the theory that the way to avoid war is to draw a clear, thus far-and-no-further line which a potential enemy cannot cross without war.

Man in Grey Flannel Shroud

(or Lines Inspired by a News Story in the Victoria Daily Times of December 1, 1956, on the Projected Arrangements at Colwood of Memorial Gardens Limited.)

Sing ho! for the salesman who sells bronze plates
In Memorial Gardens Ho!
And a honny nonny for borders bonny!

(The firm is seeking a source of slates.)
Sing ho! for the flagstones! No gravel gates
On the ears of the decomposing
Paths must be flagged for the loved ones' dozing.

(The firm is seeking a source of slates.)
Sing ho! for the coffins, caskets and crates
And Carian marble Bibles
And muted music among the yews.

(The firm is seeking a source of slates.)
Sing ho! for the dead! Those fortunate stiff
Who've contributed all their brass fardens

What once was a go for the carrion crow
Is now meat for Memorial Gardens.
But when at last the Last Trumpet sounds
And open are flung the pearly gates
What's well trimmed sod in the sight of God

If the firm never found a source of slates?

Government St.

Unanswered Question

Senator Henry M. Jackson, one of the United States' representatives on NATO has said that the United States were using economic blackmail to force the withdrawal of British and French forces from the Suez area.

We now learn that this threat has been successful and that Nasser, aided by the United States, communist Russia and the Canadian Government has scored a tremendous victory. How many people will believe that if Canada had backed Britain, the United States would have been successful in this plan?

If anything good has come from this whole affair it is the knowledge that more than ever the world needs a strong united British Commonwealth of Nations.

Canada has a most important role to play in the Commonwealth and a letter on this subject written by J. A. A. George of Victoria which appeared in the Times Weekly Review of London, England for Thursday, Nov. 22, might be reprinted in every Canadian newspaper with benefit to all.

R. H. FORT.

Victoria, B.C.

Pact Favored

In this situation, those administration officials who still stubbornly contend that the Anglo-American alliance is essential to the containment of Soviet power, favor joining the pact. Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, took the same view even before the current crisis came to a head.

But, those who are now talking rather vaguely about "basing American policy on the U.N." wish to avoid irritating Col. Nasser and the Asian-African bloc. The result has been half-way measures—a warning that the United States would regard an attack on any member of the pact "with utmost gravity," and a promise to reconsider the matter when Congress is in session.

But if anything is clear, it is that half-way measures will not suffice in the present situation. Even joining the Baghdad Pact would not suffice in itself. Every ounce of American power and influence must be exerted to achieve a real settlement in the Middle East, which must include reopening of the Suez Canal and the oil pipelines through Syria. But since Col. Nasser has been allowed to enjoy his triumph unscathed, it is doubtful if American power and influence will be enough. If it is not, Khrushchev and Bulganin are likely to have their way in the end.

They're Tops

The Ulyssey, University of B.C.

When the members of UBC's four and eight-oared crews return home in the middle of December, we who stayed at home will be hard-pressed to find a fitting way to show our gratitude. What the Rowers have achieved, and what obstacles they have overcome are enormous. What we in turn can do to appropriately convey our pride and our thanks is a puzzling question.

Think of it: one year ago, most of those boys didn't know one end of an oar from the other. Today, under the inspired guidance of Coach Frank Read, they are the best in the world. And never before have two crews from the same University won double hours in the Olympic Games—or in any other world competition, for that matter.

Mobile Atom Plants for B.C. Mills, Radar-Cooked Wood, Predicted

A fascinating look into the future of increasingly technical woods operations was given here today by Lincoln B. Thiesmeyer, president of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada, Montreal.

He predicted use of nuclear power; wood cooking with radar; complete portable chip-pers; wood sale by weight rather than volume, and increased use of the helicopter in logging.

He told the 47th Western Forestry Conference that these developments would not be costly. "The day of expensive handling and rehandling of wood from stump to mill is about over as managers realize dollars lost on wood lines. They will not invest more money on woodlands research," he predicted.

Hydro-Electric Needs to Fade

Cheap nuclear power, he said, is coming much faster than people believe. In the not too distant future, he said, use will be made of small portable atomic power plants which will free pulp and paper mills from dependence upon sites of abundant hydro-electric energy or conventional power such as oil or gas.

Today there is experimentation with cooking wood with radar—that is, by high-frequency heating which can develop temperatures quickly and uniformly by exciting all the molecules in the substance treated.

The speaker also predicted trailer truck plants which would go from sawmill to sawmill for processing chips and edgings and take them away as a completed product.

Another important development, "just around the corner," is the almost instantaneous, continuous and accurate measurement of wood moisture with instruments based on atomic techniques—principle is the magnetic resonance of the proton in the nucleus of the hydrogen atom.

When this day arrives scaling in the bush can be eliminated and bone-dry fibre content will be measured—thus wood will be purchased by weight rather than volume.

'Copters Used for Tree-Cutting

Helicopters have already been developed which hover, grip trees at ground level and cut off without stumps.

"As machines take over harvesting of the woods, foresters will have more time for applications of biochemistry, plant pathology, genetics and biophysics," Mr. Thiesmeyer said.

How to eliminate preventable forest fire outbreaks was outlined Thursday to tree growers and land managers.

John Miles, Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., Aberdeen, Wash., said this could be done by reducing slash and fuel hazards; flexible logging to leave fire breaks and seed sources; adequate regeneration that smother fuel with a dense cover of second growth, and prompt salvage of blowdowns and disease-filled timber.

Better control of forest fires of the western U.S. is the object of research and development by the recently formed Fire Research Council.

Summary of these activities were given by Keith Arnold of the U.S. Forest Service's California Forest and Range Experiment Station.

The WFRS was organized to co-ordinate federal, state and university agencies, said Mr. Arnold, adding "we were surprised at the number and kinds of things people are doing in the field of forest fire research." There was "a more co-operative program between all research groups than ever before."

Use of aerial tankers to put chemicals and water on forest fires before they get a chance to spread is one example of the advances being made.

A new research attempt is to make the helicopter a more effective anti-fire tool, said Carl C. Wilson, of the Berkeley, Cal., Forest and Range Experiment Station.

Use of the aircraft started in Canada and the U.S. about 10 years ago, and in 1954 foresters in Ontario laid fire hose, dropped water bombs and pumped water on fires by copter.

Last year the U.S. Forest Service in the west made 1,700 flights on forest and bush fires. Accessories now being developed and tested include an airborne "fire truck" with pressurized tank expelling either water or chemicals by gas or rocket power; a similar sized tank to be dropped on fire as a unit; a lightweight tray which can handle hose. Tests show a copter can hover 1,000 feet up and 1,000 feet of hose can be laid in one minute of flying time.

Accused Blames Insurance Firm

A motorist who blamed his insurance company for a charge of driving while his licence was suspended was convicted, in city police court Thursday but given a suspended sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Harold D. Ferguson, 3810 Rowland, said his licence was suspended in September because he did not have insurance.

On Oct. 22 he obtained an insurance policy and the company said it would notify the department of motor-vehicles.

It didn't, and police laid the charge Nov. 18 when they stopped Ferguson for speeding on Douglas.

He pleaded guilty to the speeding charge and was fined $20.

Mayoralty Interest Centres On Nanaimo

Ald. Mrs. Hall, Pete Maffeo Provide Only Upper-Island Mayoral Contest

Ald. Mrs. A. B. Hall and Pete Maffeo, who will seek election as mayor of Nanaimo, will take part in the only mayoralty contest in the upper Island area.

This was revealed Thursday following closing of nominations.

In the other centres of Ladysmith, Courtenay, Cumberland, Alberni and Port Alberni mayors have one year yet to serve.

Three aldermen were elected by acclamation in Cumberland, but elections will be held in the other cities.

Of the village municipalities, only Alert Bay elected its commission candidates by acclamation. Elections will be held in Parksville, Qualicum Beach, Comox, Campbell River and Ucluelet.

Detailed results of nominations follow:

LADYSMITH
Aldermen (three seats) — (x) Thomas Strang (acclamation), (x) Thomas Davidson (acclamation), (x) Allan Carey (acclamation).

School board (two seats) — (x) H. J. Edwards (acclamation), (x) E. P. Wilcox (acclamation).

PORT ALBERNI
Aldermen (Three Seats) — (x) James Dalton, (x) William Goddard, (x) John Perry, William Carr, John Feser, Gustave Frigstad.

School Board (Two Seats) — Brian Cole, George Folkard, George McKnight.

ALBERNI
Aldermen (Three Seats) — (x) Fred Bishop, (x) James Trebett, (x) William Neale, Runar Nase. School Board (Two Seats) — No nominations.

PARKSVILLE
Commissioners (Three Seats) — Eric Winch, A. J. Lock, Thomas Bonar, Mrs. Joyce Bloom.

QUALICUM BEACH
Commissioners (Three Seats) — (x) Chester Good, (x) Ewart Sanders, C. M. Darkis, Harry Fullerton, Frank Holloway, Wilfred Tegar.

Leaks Plugged In Holyoak Lake Dam
CHEMAINUS — Municipal workmen and two bulldozers racing against time, have completed the job of plugging two leaks in the new log crib rock-fill dam at Holyoak Lake.

The leaks in the dam, completed this summer, were discovered last week.

Reeve C. A. P. Morrison, public works superintendent Perry Ross, and the dam inspector for the water rights branch made a special trip to Holyoak Lake to inspect the leakage.

Opinion of the inspector was that some seepage was to be expected in rock-filled dams until they "silted up," and that in this case the excessive seepage was not due to any errors in construction but was "one of those things" that often occur when local soils are used.

The inspector advised sand-bagging for a width of 15 feet and a height of four feet in two spots.

Workmen were able to complete the repairs and completely stop the leaks before snow began falling in the area.

HOPE FOR BEST
"We can only hope measures taken will prove effective," Reeve Morrison said.

A. Colby, consulting engineer for the Chemainus waterworks project, will be asked to advise what further measures, if any, can be taken to make the stopping of leaks more effective.

Should the repairs prove ineffective, then Holyoak Lake will not be able to function as a reservoir for the new Chemainus water system next summer and the community will again have to be dependent on Fuller's Lake for a reserve supply.

"At the very worst," Reeve Morrison added, "Chemainus will still be better off for water than it was previously."

Work Scarce For Hungarians In Alberni

IWA Official Gives Warning

PORT ALBERNI — Jack Moore, financial secretary of the IWA here, broadcast a warning Thursday night that Hungarian refugees brought to the Alberni may find it difficult to obtain employment.

Tentative plans are being laid for 100 of the men and women fleeing war-torn Hungary to come to the valley.

Mr. Moore claims that more than 600 men are registered in the Alberni at this time for unemployment benefits.

"It is unfortunate that these refugees are coming at this particular time of year, as we now have so many unemployed," he said.

OKAY IN SPRING
"As Canadian workers we are duty bound to our fellow workers in every part of the world. There is no doubt that the Canadian economy will absorb these new workers when spring rolls around. In the meantime, it must be understood by all that preference for employment in the camps and mills of the valley will go to those who have been laid off," Mr. Moore said.

"The Hungarian refugees, if they desire employment in logging or mill operations, must wait until the company (MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd.) has re-employed those who have been laid off," he said.

$4,000 Loss In Langford Garage Fire

Loss in a fire which destroyed two cars and equipment in a large private garage at 2585 Millstream in Langford Thursday is estimated at between $4,000 and $6,000 by owner A. H. Phelps.

Langford volunteer fire department confined the blaze to the interior and the 32x45-foot building still stands.

Lost in the fire were a 1951 half-ton truck, an older coupe, two power saws, a deep freeze, a 40 h.p. portable engine and assorted tools.

Fire Chief Rod Bayles said the fire was caused when two men cleaning machinery with gasoline got too close to an open heater and the vapor flashed into flame.

DOWN IN BRAZIL JUNGLE?

Guided Missile Loses Its Guide

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Air Force today said a runaway guided missile is presumed to have landed somewhere in the Brazilian jungle, possibly in the area of the Amazon River.

The missile was launched from Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., on Wednesday and was set for a total flight distance of about 3,000 miles.

The course was supposed to have been a closed circuit over the Atlantic, but the missile failed to go into the intended turn.

The missile was under radar surveillance as far as the coast of South America.

An air force spokesman said that because no reports of the missile's landing had been received, it is probable that it came to earth in some remote, uninhabited jungle area.

Normally a test missile is fired along the range to a designated point at which it is turned around and headed back toward the test base so it can be recovered.

NO GAS! WANTED: STEAM CAR

LONDON (UP) — A motorist apparently driven to desperation by the gasoline shortage ran this advertisement in The Times of London:

"Wish to buy Stanley Steamer motor car in running order or easily repairable condition."

Industrial TV To Make Debut In Powell River

First industrial television use in British Columbia's forest industry will soon be operating in the Powell River Company's pulp mill to eliminate log jamming dangers.

The closed-circuit camera will be placed where it picks up operation of spike rolls at the lower end of the flume. The logs are carried up on a conveyor and then discharged into the grinder.

The receiver inside the plant can see any jam and can come out and fix it. Before, it was necessary to have a man at the flume end at all times.

Details were released at the Western Forestry Conference here.

American Yacht Tackles Atlantic

LIJMUUDEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Two American yachtsmen set out across the North Sea to Britain Thursday night on the first leg of an Atlantic crossing in a 73-foot ketch. Captain-owner Cedric Melton of Florida and Donald Palmer of Joliet, Ill., are headed for the Virgin Islands in the Friday, 17 feet wide with a draft of seven feet.

French Planes Searched for Bombs

PARIS (Reuters) — Customs officials at Orly Airport Thursday checked some 1,000 parcels for time-bombs before allowing them on board planes bound for Algiers. Government orders for a check on air freight followed the discovery of a parcel bomb in an air terminal at Algiers.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

As chief bush-beater and talent hound for the Boston Bruins, Harold "Baldy" Cotton travels some 15,000 miles a year to run his discriminating buyer's eye over 10,000 hockey players.

Cotton started scouting back in the early '40s at the princely stipend of 25 bucks a week. He was one of the original hockey scouts in Canada and, suffice to say, that he has proved his worth sufficiently that he now draws considerably more than 25 cents a week.

Cotton's present commission is bucketing through the Prairies with the Victoria Cougars, rather a vital job, since the Cougars are one of Boston's major farm clubs.

It is a twofold job at present: (a) Looking at the Cougars to see what they can do for Boston next year, and (b) looking at the Cougars to see what Boston can do for them this year.

The guy who has discovered such NHL luminaries as Ed Sanford, Real Chevrefils, Doug Mohns, Jimmy Morrison and Jerry Toppazzini likes the looks of this Victoria bunch.

He said from Edmonton Thursday night, "I am getting a kick out of the spirit this club shows."

"I saw the Cougar club last year at the same time and, comparing them, I would say that this year's team drives a lot harder and seems to want to win a lot more."

"There's a good team feeling on the club. I went down to the dressing room between periods after Kilburn had been hurt in Winnipeg. Between worrying about Kilburn's injury and kicking themselves for letting Winnipeg score two goals on them, the guys were chewing nails. They went out in the third period and checked Winnipeg to a standstill."

Cotton had a word of praise for Cougars' decimated defencemen.

"They went great in the two games I saw, considering the fact that they are down to three defencemen. The three of them seem to be thriving on the extra work and the only relief they get is the odd shift when Kilburn or the kid Roy Partridge drops back for a while."

Cotton doesn't like to pin-point individuals, but he did admit that Larry Leach looks like a prospect. He said it in his own way.

"That kid is going to be a hockey player one of these days."

As to the words Victoria hockey fans are waiting to hear — about help from the Boston club, Cotton said, "I had originally planned just to see the team on the Prairies. But now I have decided to come back to Victoria for a couple of days so we can talk things over thoroughly. Hockey players can't be picked off bushes like roses, but Boston will help Cougars out player-wise in every way possible."

I was just wondering if the Edmonton Flyers are going to send a bill to Detroit Red Wings for services rendered. Al Arbour before the glasses-wearing Flyer defenceman was called up to the Wings. Just before the call was received, the Flyers dug down for $500 to pay for a pair of contact lenses for Arbour to replace those steel-rimmed specs he usually wears.

Then there was that dear old lady in Melbourne who phoned Olympic Stadium to inquire what time the heats were to be held in the morning for the 25-mile marathon.

Female competitors on the United States and Russian teams proved that women will be women, no matter what the situation. Lloyd Swindells informs us from Melbourne. Swindells was one of the few covering journalists who noticed that when the teams paraded around the stadium on the opening day of the Olympics, the Yank and Russian teams lined up alongside each other. The female competitors of both teams gratefully kicked off their high heels and stretched their toes luxuriously into the hallowed grass of Olympic Stadium.

It's McColl to Beat In City Medal Golf

Bill McColl will have a two-stroke margin to work on when city golfers start the final round of the fall series of monthly medal competitions at Victoria Golf Club.

Johnny Merriman of Gorge Vale is two strokes back of the Colwood veteran while another Gorge Vale swinger, Art Donaldson, is four strokes off the pace.

If weather conditions permit, the final round will be played Sunday, starting at 10 a.m. If not, the round will be played the following Sunday.

Last City Hopes Fall In 'Spiel

Gerry Lauder's hopes for a second-straight victory in the No. 1 event of Vancouver's second annual Totem Botspiel went skidding on the bumpy ice at the New Westminster Curling Club Thursday.

The Victoria Curling Club quartet, skipped by Tony Gotski and this year including lead Joe Dukowski and second Larry Marshall, dropped a decision to Bob DeBoeck of Calgary in the semifinals of the Totem event.

Winners of seven straight games before losing to the famed Campbell brothers of Avonlea, Sask., Wednesday, the Victorians were knocked out of the bantam by Thursday's defeat and will have to settle for either third or fourth prize in the Totem primary.

Meeting DeBoeck tonight for the Totem title will be veteran Bung Cartmell of Vancouver. Winner of this final will also take the grand aggregate crown and a big share of more than $7,500 in prizes.

The final of the Capilano event will see Ken Anderson of Calgary battle with a Vancouver squad skipped by Pete McTavish. In the East-West final, it will be a struggle between a pair of Vancouver rinks skipped by Al Argue and John French.

Four Vancouver crews remain in the Dogwood and Vancouver events. Mert Ballard and Ross Moir will meet for Dogwood honors, while L. D. Skull and Jack Morrison will contest the Vancouver final.

Hungary Wins Water Polo Gold Medal

MELBOURNE (CP)—Hungary's defending champions won the Olympic water polo championship, defeating Yugoslavia 2-1 to complete an unbeaten final round.

The Yugoslavs, also unbeaten before tonight, won the silver medal with three wins and a tie in their five starts.

Russia, 4-0 losers to Hungary in a turbulent match Thursday night, nailed down the bronze medal earlier today by defeating Germany 6-4. Italy won fourth place with the United States fifth and Germany sixth.

In 1944, when Parker was a 12-year-old in Knoxville, Tenn., the family doctor wanted to amputate his left leg to halt a rampant toe infection.

"My feet swelled up like balloons and became inflamed. Some nights mother had to tie my hands behind my back to keep me from scratching the maddening itch," he recalled in an interview.

BONE BRUISE, WRENCHED KNEE, CHARLEY HORSE . . .

Nothing But Bumps, Claims Colin

By DENNY BOYD

There's nothing wrong with him, Colin Kilburn insists, absolutely nothing.

That is, if you disregard a bruised kneecap that he had when the Cougars left Victoria for their present road trip, a deep charley-horse that he picked up in Brandon on Tuesday night and a bone bruise on his shin, a memento of Wednesday's game in Winnipeg.

If you disregard these minor ailments, as Kilburn is doing, you come to the conclusion that there is nothing wrong with him, as Kilburn claims.

"I've picked up a couple of bumps on the trip," Kilburn said from Edmonton Thursday night, "but don't mention anything about them. They're not important and we'll be able to fix them up in time for the Edmonton game."

There is quite a story attached to that last "little bump," the bone bruise he suffered against Winnipeg.

Kilburn had scored a goal and an assist to rein the Cougars to a 3-0 lead over the Warriors. But midway through the second period, Warriors fired in a pair of quickies to make things a bit sticky, the Cougar lead suddenly fizzling to a mere 3-2 edge.

In the last two minutes of the period, Kilburn was leading a three-man rush on the Winnipeg goal with Roy Partridge and Larry Leach. Kilburn was going after a drop pass from Partridge when he was dropped solidly by Winnipeg's Noel Price.

"It was a good honest check, make no mistake about that," Kilburn insisted. "He got a good angle on me and hit me solid and clean."

Kilburn was taken off the ice on a stretcher and trainer Berlyn Hodges wrapped a pad over the bruised shinbone. Even though he should have taken the rest of the night off, Kilburn came back to take his regular shift on the forward line and dropped back to defence on several occasions as the Cougars held Winnipeg to a scoreless deadlock in the last period to protect their first Prairie win of the season.

After a malicious chuckle at hearing of Victoria's current weather situation, Kilburn requested, "Tell everyone out there that the club is going great. That was a good win at Winnipeg and we could have won the Brandon game with any luck. We were all over them like a tent in the first period but we hit the post three times."

"Ray Powell is getting better every game and Don Chiuqua played a whale of a game at Winnipeg."

"Fortunately, we haven't picked up any injuries so far on the trip."

And, when he said that, Kilburn included himself.

HUNGARIAN ATHLETES HIDING IN MELBOURNE

MELBOURNE (AP)—At least six members of the Hungarian Olympic team slipped out of the Olympic village during the night and took refuge in the homes of expatriates living in Melbourne, the Associated Press learned today.

Presumably the move was preparatory to seeking refuge in Australia.

A tense atmosphere prevailed around the Hungarian headquarters with team officials maintaining they knew nothing of any defections.

Most of the Hungarian athletes were busy packing bags but all were silent on whether they intended to be aboard a plane leaving on the return trip home tonight or whether they would seek asylum in Australia and the United States.

FOR CRACK AT MOORE

Wallace to Test Tony's Glass Jaw

NEW YORK (CP)—The only Canadian among the top 10 light-heavyweights takes on a rugged opponent tonight at Madison Square Garden in a fight that could lead to a crack at Archie Moore's world title for the winner.

Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Ont., comes up against tough Tony Anthony of New York in a 10-rounder that could well decide who gets the first chance at Moore when he defends his crown.

Wallace, a one-time lumberjack who holds the British Empire light heavyweight title, has 31 victories in 43 fights, including 15 knockouts. His 21-year-old opponent has a 28-4 record with 21 of the wins coming by knockouts.

Wallace Underdog
Anthony, rated No. 5 by Ring Magazine, is a 2-to-1 favorite to defeat Wallace.

The Canadian, who won the Empire title June 16 by outpointing Ron Barton in London, is ranked seventh by Ring. The National Boxing Association places him fifth and Anthony ninth.

Both fighters were declared in top shape for the fight by their managers. Frank Bricker, who handles Wallace, said his man is "much improved" since 1953, when he was knocked out in three rounds by the now heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson.

Anthony's manager, Ernie Braca, was confident in predicting victory for his boy.

"The way we figure it," he said, "Tony will beat Wallace and then meet Chuck Speiser for the American title, and then the winner will challenge Moore. If Arch doesn't come out fighting, then we'll be boss of the world."

Speiser currently is rated No. 3 by Ring Magazine among the light heavyweights.

and even there I got in trouble. The rays only burned my legs more.

"Finally they decided to amputate my left leg but I wouldn't let the doctor do it. 'You can try something else or bury me barefooted,' I told him."

Jackie's mother heeded his plea and shortly after the infected leg began to heal.

Eight months later Jackie entered high school and was able to play football with his feet tightly bound up with tape.

At Jones Junior College, his feet gave him more trouble. He was forced to wear $70 flays in his boots and take grueling exercises to strengthen his feet.

Since then, Parker has risen through the Southern Conference, where he set a record,

Upset Bug Bites Jim In Shuttle Shocker

Jim Wells became the first victim of a major upset in the annual Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club badminton tournament Thursday night to Ed Hedley.

Playing at the club's Amphion Street courts, the top-seeded defending men's singles champion dropped a 15-9, 15-3 decision to Ed Hedley, who will continue on the title trail when he meets Reg. Hoadley at 7 to 1.

Competition in all divisions will continue tonight and finals are scheduled to be played Saturday night. All contestants are asked to report at the courts by 8 tonight.

Tonight's draw and starting times:

9:30 p.m.—R. Travis and W. Cameron vs. H. Davidson and H. Evans; S. Kelly and S. Reid vs. C. King and L. Tolson.

Harrison held a two-stroke lead over Ed Furgol of St. Louis. Al Balding of Toronto was tied with four other pros for third place. He shot a 69 Thursday, along with Dave Douglas, St. Louis; Al Bessellink, Grossingers, N.Y.; Herman Barron, White Plains, N.Y., and Rufino Gonzales, the host pro.

In Toronto last month, he set a record for Grey Cup competition, scoring three touchdowns and a single for Eskimos.

His legs are sound but skinny now and attract a good deal of good-natured kidding from his teammates.

Parker accepted the kidding with a smile but he is in dead earnest about the East-West game.

"A lot of people think all game games aren't too good because there is nothing at stake."

"That's not true, to me, any way. This game Saturday is as important as any I've ever played in."

Aussie Aces Prove Swim Superiority

Russia Clinches Point Lead

MELBOURNE (CP)—Russia formally clinched first place today in the unofficial Olympic point standings, carrying a lead of more than 100 points over the United States into the final day of the games with only the soccer championship to be decided.

The result was a foregone conclusion since Russia's big harvest of points in gymnastics on Thursday which had sent them far in front of the 67 competing countries in the point table, which is computed on a 10-3-4-3-2-1 basis for the first six in each event.

The standings:
1. Russia	712
2. United States	503
3. Australia	273
4. Germany	220
5. Hungary	220
6. Japan	180
7. Britain	160

Pat McCormick Sweeps Tower Diving Doubles

MELBOURNE (CP)—Australia scored two smashing swimming victories and Mrs. Pat McCormick completed an unprecedented double-double in leading an American sweep in platform diving as the glittering show at Olympic pool came to a close.

Lorraine Crapp, Australia's brilliant 18-year-old swimmer, won the women's 400-metre freestyle in Olympic record time, beating out teammate Dawn Fraser and Sylvia Ruska of the United States.

Murray Rose, 17-year-old Sydney schoolboy who earlier won the 400-metre freestyle, added the 1,500-metre freestyle with ease. He needed to set no records in winning over Japan's Tsuyoshi Yamanaka and George Breen of Buffalo, N.Y., world record holder.

Russia, having already handed the U.S. its first defeat for the unofficial Olympic team title, added its 36th gold medal with a team championship in women's gymnastics. Hungary won the gymnastic team drill with portable apparatus.

Mrs. McCormick, 26-year-old Lakewood, Calif., housewife, had earlier won the springboard championship and in completing her double for the 1956 Olympic Games successfully defended both titles she won in 1952 at Helsinki.

When the points were tabulated Mrs. McCormick had scored a total of 84.85 for her six dives.

Stumble Starts Russian Downfall

The Russian girls dropped well back. Tatiana Karakachants had a bad entry into the water on her first dive and finished in fifth place.

Raisa Gorohovskaia, who was in second place when the diving started, lost her balance in her effort for a handstand and automatically drew a penalty when her feet touched the floor of the tower. Her execution after this shaky start was poor, and she finished in ninth place.

The net result of the swimming competition at these Olympic Games showed Australia's superiority. Australians won eight gold medals and the United States five. Great Britain, Japan, Mexico and Germany captured one each.

In winning the 400-metre freestyle championship, Miss Crapp improved upon her own Olympic record with a time of four minutes 54.6 seconds. She previously set a record of 5:02.

Murray Rose won the 1,500-metre freestyle decisively and the outcome was in the same order as when he won the 400-metre freestyle race earlier in the games—Yamanaka second and Breen third.

Pat Murphy of Delhi, Ont., placed 29th. Jim Davies of Vancouver and Fred Markus of Toronto, dropped out, but Canada finished 11th among 14 teams.

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

The curtain goes up on another black brant season Saturday morning, but few Lower-Island hunters are expected to risk frozen fingers setting out decoys for the little sea-going geese.

It won't be the current Arctic atmosphere that will keep the brant blinds empty, for brant hunters are traditionally rugged types who profess immunity to discomfort. It's just that it will be a surprise if anyone can find a flock of black brant.

For many years, brant have made only occasional appearances in this area before February. And the main flight of birds usually starts just about the time the season ends on the last day of February.

Last year, due to a light kill, the season was extended for 10 days. Whether or not we'll get another extension remains to be seen. The decision will come from Ottawa and will depend on hunting success. Good shooting will mean no extension. Poor shooting might result in a later closing date.

Mainland nimbros will have a bit better chance for brant and will also finally be able to open up on the big flocks of snow geese that have been tempting duck hunters around the mouth of the Fraser River. The snows have been legal targets on Vancouver Island since Oct. 13.

While the brant opening will be just a formality, this could be a good weekend for ducks.

This week's cold snap has led up most of the sloughs and potholes and chased the ducks down to tidal flats. And apparently riding down with the wind were a good number of Northern birds.

Strong winds helped keep good flights moving through Tuesday and Wednesday at Chemainus and Cowichan flats. Ducks were also active at Sidney Island and good flocks of widgeon and some mallards were pitching onto the flats at Sooke Harbor.

Given enough wind to keep the birds from sitting out the days on open water, we could have a few days of interesting shooting.

Steelhead anglers could also be in for a fairly interesting weekend. Good runs of steelies have been reported in most rivers in the Alberni district and the Cowichan River has been yielding some good fish. Prospects may also be good at Nanaimo River, where reports indicate a run of steelhead has started.

Saturday was the best steelhead day of the season in the lower reaches of the Cowichan. Action cooled off a bit Sunday but fish were taken in several places along the river with the headwaters producing the best catches.

Biggest steelhead reported taken from the Cowichan last weekend was the 15-pounder beached by Fred Olkovich of Victoria. Earl Reynolds, who had a 12-pounder. Ed Cuppage and Len Traar of Mesachie Lake, who hauled in three fish, also scored at the Cowichan.

Salmon anglers will be hoping for a break in the weather that interrupted some of their best fishing of the year. There were some excellent weekend catches of grilse and winter springs at Saanich Inlet, Cowichan Bay and Crofton, but few have ventured out since Monday.

However, Tiny Richards and Franke Morse managed to stay out long enough Tuesday to pick up a 21-pound spring near Coal Island, while Charley Guiguet and Stan Williams took eight grilse and lost several others while bouncing around for a couple of hours in Saanich Inlet Wednesday.

Fish have been hitting in all parts of the Inlet but the best spot for springs appears to be between Tod Inlet and Willis Point, where Ken Wringe boated a 17½-pounder Sunday.

Tom Harper and Gordon Hallam came in with a limit catch of springs up to 11 pounds and Tom Alexander topped off a limit with a 13-pounder. Vic Humphries included two good springs in a limit catch while Mr. and Mrs. John Rose picked up their quota of salmon both Saturday and Sunday. Many other boats came in with one or two springs or limit catches of grilse.

Rough water has just about ruined fishing off Oak Bay during the past week although Len Humber came in with salmon of eight and 13 pounds and Collin Corbett boated a 10-pounder Saturday.

Adams Blasts Lindsay For 'Complacent Play'

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings today share first place with the Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League but their star left winger, Ted Lindsay, is deep in the doghouse.

Al Rosen, Garcia on Tribe Block

Indians Seek Catcher, Dickering With Tigers

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.

(AP) — Cleveland Indians have offered pitcher Mike Garcia to Detroit and slugger Al Rosen to Boston for a much-needed first-string catcher and Cincinnati Redlegs have made a concrete offer to Brooklyn for third baseman Randy Jackson.

This information was among a few choice items learned as the minor league convention came to an end today and the baseball folk unpacked their winter clothes for the major league meetings in Chicago starting Monday.

A Tiger official revealed that Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Indians, had offered them Garcia and second-string catcher Hal Aragon for Frank "Pig" House, the left-handed hitting bonus catcher.

CONSIDERING OFFER

"It's an interesting offer and we're considering its possibilities," said the Detroit official. "We could use another starting pitcher and Garcia, if right, could help us."

That same source also said he was aware that Greenberg had made a man-for-man offer of Rosen, the hard-hitting third baseman, to the Red Sox for catcher Sammy White.

It is believed the Redlegs, seeking to solve their third base problem, have offered Smokey Burgess, their second-string catcher, to the Dodgers for Jackson.

It also was learned that the proposed multiple trade between Philadelphia and Brooklyn has simmered down to a pitcher-for-shortstop-plus deal between the two clubs. As it stands now, the Phillies, admittedly searching for a shortstop, are mulling over an offer by the Dodgers that would give them shortstop Bill Lillis and centerfielder Gino Cimoli for any one of three pitchers — southpaw Harvey Haddix and Curt Simmons or righthander Jack Meyer.

Hoop Tourney Off

TORONTO (UPI)—The Canadian Amateur Basketball Association has dropped plans for a national women's tournament next spring because it is short of money.

The tournament was to have been a round-robin series in Saskatoon.

Fred Bibby of Toronto, registrar of the CABA said yesterday "women's national championships, alternating between east and west, have proved most unprofitable for most clubs ever since the customer-attracting Edmonton Grads dropped from the picture back in 1940."

Game time is 8.30, with a preliminary girls' match between the two schools scheduled for 7.30.

Esquimalt, meanwhile, will be sending both the senior and junior girls to Lake Cowichan.

Gary Taylor's Oak Bay athletes, currently basking in one of the best seasons the school has ever enjoyed, will find themselves faced with no easy opponents in the Totems.

Game time is 8.30, with a preliminary girls' match between the two schools scheduled for 7.30.

Mount View, the other high school team in the Victoria area, has no game scheduled for tonight.

SKI HEIL!

Happy Day, Say Skiers To Blizzard

By A. SITZMARK

Among the grim, set faces at the wheels of automobiles ditched, staggered or bewildered by the whirling white flakes you may have noticed an odd one lit up with an imbecile grin of anticipatory glee.

Five will get you 50 that the face belonged to a member in precarious standing of the Victoria Sno-Birds Ski Club. While decent citizens were scowling at the prospect of a weekend of snow, thoughts of the Sno-Birds were turning to that little cabin high on Mount Breton, just 50 miles away.

Apart from the usual carloads of Brenton-bound skiers Saturday, there will be other parties making their way to the Eagle Heights area.

Members with space in their cars, others looking for a ride, and anyone at all who is interested in joining this friendly fistful of frozen fanatics please contact either Betty Brown (8-3489) or Bud Peetz (3-3652).

PNE BUYS CANUCKS; COLEY SELLS INTERESTS

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Pacific National Exhibition Thursday night announced it has completed the purchase of Vancouver Canucks in the Western Hockey League from Coley Hall.

In a statement, the PNE said it exercised its option to purchase Hall's half-interest in Vancouver Ventures Ltd., owners of the club.

Hall will remain as general manager of the Canucks, now running last in the coast division of the league.

Vancouver Ventures was formed in 1954 for administration purposes when the Exhibition bought a 50 per cent share in the hockey club from Hall. It was agreed at the time the PNE could buy out Hall's share at a later date.

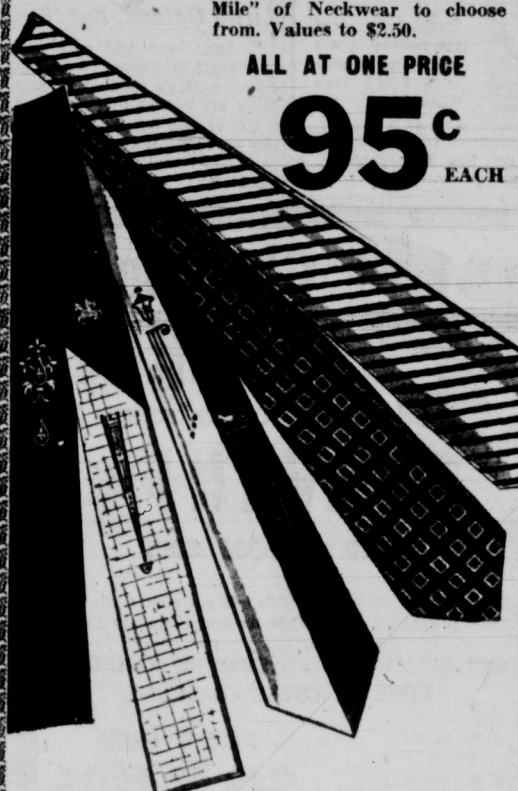

The amount involved was not disclosed.

BAN ON TOLMIE PARKING REJECTED BY COMMITTEE

Plans to close Mount Tolmie summit car park area at 10.30 p.m. or set a one-hour parking limit to discourage drinking and petting parties, were rejected by Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee Thursday.

"You cannot legislate morality," said the chairman, Saanich councillor Ronald Grant. "If they don't do it in the parks they'll do it somewhere else."

Mount Tolmie residents had complained to Saanich council who referred the matter to Saanich police commission who in turn proposed the parking ban. Councillor Grant pointed out that many tourists wish to see the city by night from the view point and it should not be closed to them.

If there was drinking in the cars by juveniles, "It's just a matter of enforcement," he added.

The proposal for a one-hour limit was made by Victoria Ald. M. H. Mooney. It was also discarded as unenforceable.

TIMES ASS'T EDITOR SAYS AT PANEL MEETING

Value Received in Education Most Vital Aspect of Costs

BY PETE LOUDON

Although seating was set up for an audience of over 1,000, less than 60 persons attended an education forum at Central Junior High School Thursday night.

All but 10 of these were school board employees, school teachers or Parent-Teacher Association officials.

There was discussion on whether the small turnout resulted from the cold weather or from public apathy and lack of interest in the forthcoming $5,600,000 school-building referendum.

Because the audience was almost exclusively people interested and well-instructed in school matters, the forum was conducted at an academic level. All present appeared to favor the school referendum and there was no dissension on that question.

What argument did develop came from the assertion by panelist and former teacher and principal, Dr. Henrietta Anderson, that the curriculum needs revision more than the physical qualities of existing schools.

"She felt more classrooms of a cheaper nature than those designed in the past would provide more space for additional courses."

"There are a great many people in high school who shouldn't be there at all."

She said 75 per cent of the children are in the "manual minded" group.

"Nature only sends 25 per cent in the academic group, which is all we need. I don't think we are doing for the 75 per cent what we are doing for the top-notchers." The fact that Victoria has a high percentage of youngsters continuing in the higher school levels is not the honor some teachers believe, she said.

Little Gained, But 'Fashionable' to Stay

"I have been told over and over again by teachers and principals, a large number of students are not getting anything out of school, but it's economically possible for them (the students) to remain, and it's fashionable."

Several teachers argued the point from the floor but there was agreement the situation probably will be met by a widened selection of courses.

The topic, "Is Education Expensive" was discussed first by Times assistant editor Arthur H. Stott.

As a parent he said, he agreed it is expensive, but he would support the referendum, recognizing it might add a mill or two to the tax rate.

"It would be infinitely more costly if we didn't have education and finance it as we do."

He pointed to India and China to show how lack of widespread education has meant lower living standards.

"The more we can give in training, the better equipped the student to earn higher incomes. Industry wants specially trained people and there are not enough in Canada."

"The cost of education comes high. I am not so concerned about financing my share, as to the value received."

NEED BEST TODAY

"Are we determined to provide the bare minimum of education or are we going to provide the best we can afford? The youngsters will need education (today) as it never was needed before," concluded Mr. Stott.

Lloyd Jermain, a city accountant, said there was no doubt education is expensive. It costs $80,000,000 annually in the province.

"So is marriage, but it is essential."

He answered the objection that the school referendum gives the board a blanket authority, by pointing out every expenditure is controlled by the department of education.

He questioned whether we are spending enough for education.

"No matter how much raw material there is in the country, young minds are our most vital resource."

Victoria School Board Chairman W. H. Golby said it couldn't matter whether education is expensive or not. "If the apathy is as bad as it appears," he referred to the field of empty seats in the auditorium.

BIG BUSINESS

He said education is big business but is still insignificant compared to the amount spent on luxuries. People would pay up to 22 per cent interest to buy a new fridge, he said.

"I don't think three or four dollars on our taxes is an expense we can notice. The cheapest bill that comes into my house is my tax bill."

He added that Greater Victoria School Board built the cheapest permanently constructed school in Western Canada when S. J. Willis Junior High was built, with the highest labor costs.

Election Meeting Wednesday In C. Saanich

SAANICHTON — A pre-election meeting will be held Wednesday at Keating Women's Institute Hall, starting at 8 p.m., when Reeve H. Rupert Brown of Central Saanich will give his annual report to ratepayers.

Also on the program will be addresses by the three candidates for two seats on the municipal council—newcomer Harry Baade and Councillors John Windsor and Harry Peard.

B.C.'s Hospitality Worst, Says Belgian

TORONTO (CP)—Alberta offers the best hospitality; British Columbia the worst, says Dr. Werner Mahau, 32-year-old Belgian dentist who has finished a 3,200-mile walk from Montreal to Vancouver.

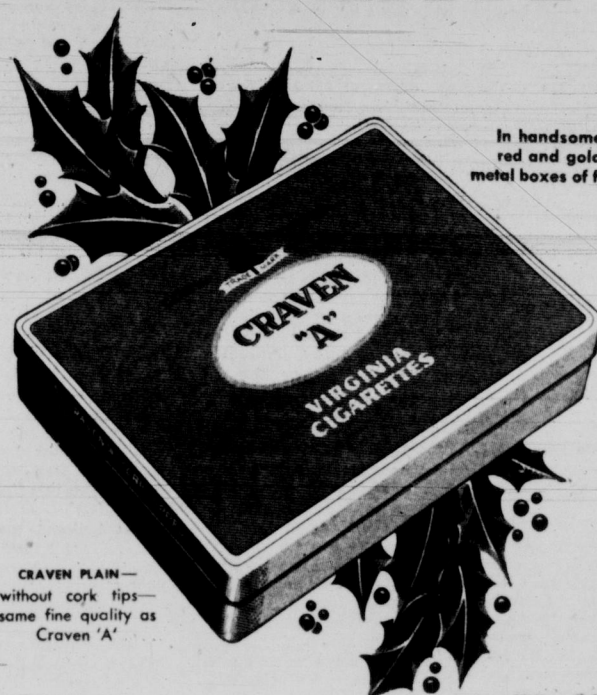

He is resting here before embarking on a 30,000-mile stroll down the coast of South America.

In Canada, generally, said Dr. Mahau, he found the hospitality excellent.

"I liked Alberta—especially Calgary—best of all. I would like to go back there and live. I'd place the hospitality in Ontario and Manitoba second. In B.C. they were not so nice."

During his four-month hike he spent only six days sleeping out. The rest of the time people put him in their homes, barns or hostels. He slept once in a hearse.

Son of Accused Defence Witness

From CP Dispatches
NEW WESTMINSTER—The 16-year-old son of Gerald Edward Eaton, 51, on trial for the murder of Carolynne Moore, 8, took the stand as a defence witness Thursday.

Young Eaton testified that he met his father outside Langley high school April 28 and was driven with a school friend to their music lessons in a nearby hall.

Eaton's father picked the boys up about an hour later and drove them to a cafe. Half an hour later they all returned to the hall and stayed there together for an hour and half.

Young Eaton said he noticed nothing unusual about his father at the time.

The Moore girl was reported missing April 28 but her body was not found for several days. Earlier, Mrs. Doris Moore, mother of the slain child, took the stand and described clothing worn by Carolynne the day she disappeared.

For the first time since the trial opened last Monday, the blind wife of the accused man was in court.

Two RCMP experts from the Regina crime detection laboratory wound up the crown's case.

Miss Edythe Huston, laboratory technician, said blood scrapings taken from the trunk of Eaton's car were of the same type as that of the murdered girl.

$100,000 HOTEL FIRE

HEDLEY—The second fire to strike this community 25 miles from Princeton Thursday severely damaged the Hedley hotel. No one was injured.

The blaze broke out in 20-below-zero cold at 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

The hotel proprietor estimated damage at $100,000, of which $65,000 was covered by insurance.

Twelve rooms were occupied at the time but all guests escaped unharmed.

FAST TIME PROPOSAL

CASTLEGAR—The Associated Boards of Trade of southeast B.C. are still trying to have the area adopt Pacific daylight time all year. This would put the district an hour ahead of the rest of B.C. in winter but be equivalent to Alberta's mountain standard time all year.

A special meeting of the group here Thursday found that no public expression of the change has been made by Trail residents.

MURDER TRIAL OPENS

CHASE—Preliminary hearing of a murder charge laid against George Allan Thomson of Chase began here Thursday. Thomson is charged in connection with the gun-slaying of Wilber Edmund Nicol of nearby Magna Bay Oct. 9.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME

WESTBRIDGE—Fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hagen Power and family here Tuesday.

Mr. Power and his wife were working on the family car when the blaze broke out. He dashed into the building and rescued two sons, aged three and five. The Powers have four other children ranging in age to 13.

BUILDING RECORD

VANCOUVER—Building in Vancouver for the first 11 months of the year now stands at a record-breaking $62,500,000, city officials said Thursday.

The figure is well ahead of the total for all of 1955 of $53,400,000, the last record high.

Plan Welcome Cross-Country For Foresters

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—University of Ottawa students are taking action to organize a cross-Canada welcome for Hungarian forestry students, professors and their wives and children on the "Freedom Train" which will carry 470 of them from Halifax to the University of British Columbia and Powell River, B.C., next month.

Thursday night Gaspard Cote, president of the student federation at the University of Ottawa, dispatched telegrams to student leaders at every university of Canada urging them to organize local welcomes. The welcomes would "show the solidarity of Canadian students with the freedom fighters," he suggested.

During the Hungarians' stop-over in Ottawa the Ottawa students plan to give them books, magazines, cigarettes, refreshments and toys for the children.

Homeless Hungarian Ballet Seeks New Life in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Anybody who wants to set up in business a homeless Hungarian opera company?

The Budapest Opera, which fled to Austria in a body after Russian retaliation against Hungarian rebels, is available-sight unseen and chorus unheard, and has hinted it would like to come to Canada.

It had a fine reputation before the Second World War. It was considered one of the best in Europe.

Interest in establishing the Budapest Opera Company in Toronto is being shown by representatives of music, ethnic and business organizations.

Edgar Burton, president of the Robert Simpson Company, said he believes the newly-formed Canada Council could sponsor the company as a contribution to Canadian culture.

Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni, principal of the Royal Conservatory of Music, said Toronto would be fortunate to get a well-known opera company of international reputation.

Vancouver and Stratford festival societies also have expressed interest in sponsoring the company.

C (To put in time)

(BB) "LOVE ME TENDER" (Capitol)—If it weren't for that young man of renown Mr. Elvis Presley 20th Century Fox's "Love Me Tender" would pass for what it is—an average love story with a post-Civil War background.

But as it does put Mr. Presley on wide-screen display for the first time not only as a bouncing balladeer but as an actor, "Love Me Tender" emerges with special interest.

THE STORY. In truth, is not a powerful one, although it contains enough action to make it entertaining. In 1865 Southern raiders held up a bullion train and make off with the money for the use of Confederate officials. However, too late, they learn that the war is over, that Lee has surrendered his sword. Not knowing exactly what to do with the loot they decide to split it up among themselves before setting out for their individual homes in the South.

Leader of the raiders is Richard Egan. With his share of the money and accompanied by his two brothers he returns to his widowed mother, happily anticipating marrying the girl he has left behind, Debra Paget. But when he arrives it's to discover that younger brother Elvis, who remained at home, has married her instead.

IN CONCLUSION, a note to his fans: This column recognizes the boy for what he is—a packageable, saleable commodity, a prime example of the unpredictable law of supply and demand. If there is anything to be reed it is merely that such an ordinary commodity should bring such fancy prices on a market that is stocked with much finer talent that rewards its owners with little or nothing at all.

To judge by "Love Me Tender," however, it would appear as though the market will soon be overstocked and the law of supply and demand will adjust itself and the Presley commodity will slump to its rightful place on the bargain counter.

Mr. Hitchcock, famous for his unusual "twists," has transferred his scene building technique into the field of country in this fascinating picture. The trouble with Harry was his ability to keep on re-appearing—although, undoubtedly he was dead. This of course embarrasses quite a few people in the story, who would have preferred him to stay put. Very good entertainment, full of laughs and chortles—and mystery. Highly recommended.

TWO-NIGHT PERFORMANCE Victoria High Choir Offers Grand Opera

Proof that grand opera is not beyond the scope of "teen-aged singers will be offered tonight and Saturday when Victoria High School's 140-voice choir and soloists will present "Barbarina," an English language adaptation of Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro."

This will be the vocal portion of "Winter Fantasy," a varied program which is to include band and orchestra selections, a modern dance display and a one-act play.

Miss Norma Douglas has directed the Mozart work in which Leslie Millin, Jacques Wright, Carole James, Irene Dunnett, Sylvia McGillivray, Sheila Clarke and Janie Hardie have leading parts.

A plot full of intrigue, charming music and sparkling dialogue, "Barbarina" will be presented in its appropriate 18th century setting and costumes.

The concert will begin at 8:15 tonight and Saturday at Victoria High School auditorium.

Honor Guest Dies At Banquet Table

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP) — The guest of honor at a testimonial dinner dropped dead Thursday night as friends were giving him his finest hour. Theodore Wheison 63, had just taken his seat after acknowledging gifts from his employer and fellow employees when he collapsed. He was retiring after 42 years with the Alco Graving Co.

Choral Society Will Present 'Messiah'

The Victoria Choral Society will present Handel's "Messiah" next Monday night at the Royal Theatre.

Part I of the "Messiah" provides some of the most exalted Christmas music ever conceived—the Pastoral Symphony, the jubilant choruses, "For Us a Child is Born" and "Rejoice Greatly," and the exquisite aria, "He Shall Feed His Flock."

Soloists are Margaret Abbott, Margaret Myles, Karl Norman and Derek McDermott. Members of the Victoria Symphony will form the orchestra and the whole ensemble will be directed by Graham Steed, Christ Church Cathedral organist and choirmaster.

Small Crowd Enjoys Plays at St. Luke's

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
Times Drama Critic

Frigid weather cut the audience at St. Luke's Hall to a mere handful Thursday night, but it was an enthusiastic handful which appeared to enjoy the Christmas bill of fare offered by St. Luke's Players.

Of the three one-act plays, two were pleasingly appropriate to the season. The third was a rather elongated sidi by a British Columbia author, Carl E. Schubert, entitled "Daughters of the Sea."

Originality and quite good dialogue were its strong points. Aunt Liz and her niece, Nora, are adrift in a lifeboat somewhere in the mid-Atlantic during the Second World War. A good deal of miming is required of the actresses and this was quite well handled by Dorothea House and May Brooker.

The piece, however, was under-rehearsed and tended to fall to pieces at the end.

An excellent cast consisting of Roy Blevins, Harry Lukey, Rosalind Johnston and Russ Gurney presented A. A. Milne's delightful fairy tale, "Portrait of a Gentleman in Slippers," under the direction of Mrs. House.

This whimsical play suited the players and was performed by them with obvious enjoyment.

CHARM, STYLE

The actors caught a good deal of the charm and style of the play, particularly Charles Gibson, who handled the change of pace and viewpoint in his dual roles of narrator and internal character with considerable facility.

An especially lovely effect was achieved in the use of a tape recording of St. Luke's Choir for the Choir of Angels.

Others in the cast were Allen

SHUSHER—The muzzle-like contraption worn by this demonstrator in Vienna, Austria, is not a gadget to restrain yak-yaking women. It's a device to stop snoring. Invented by a Viennese physician.

La Croix, Sandy Pogson, Judy Nicholson, Jennifer Hutchins and Dena Gibson.

The three plays will be repeated tonight at St. Luke's Hall, with curtain at 8.15.

U.S., ICELAND IN AGREEMENT OVER TROOPS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States announced Thursday that Iceland has dropped its demand that U.S. troops there be called home.

The state department said the United States and Iceland agreed that "recent developments in world affairs" made it necessary to keep defence forces in Iceland under the 1951 U.S.-Iceland defence agreement.

Three Killed In Car Crash

KILLARNEY, Man. (CP)—Two women and one man were killed Wednesday in a two-car head-on collision on Highway 18, seven miles north of Killarney, 165 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

The victims were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leveault and Mrs. Alphonse Ballegeer, all of Baldur.

Saturday Deadline For Yule Mail to U.S.

Christmas mailing to the United States must be cleared from Victoria by Saturday, the post office warned today.

Later mailing does not assure delivery before Dec. 25 and "a late gift looks like an afterthought," a post office release said.

The deadline applies particularly to parcels requiring customs examination, and customs forms No. 91B are required for all parcels over eight ounces.

Parcels under eight ounces, prepaid at parcel post rates, do not require customs declaration, but should contain an invoice or statement of value.

Letter rate packages should bear customs label No. 185 and contain invoice or statement. All mail should bear a return address.

Warm Welcome Brings Happy Smiles to Weary Hungarian Faces

By TONY DICKASON

They walked off the CPR boat from Vancouver somberly, a little apart from the other passengers, grouped as if for protection.

Hungary is no longer a home for them it's a horror. The government-assisted immigrants, 15 men and two women, have literally entered a new world, and were yet too confused to fully realize what has happened.

They moved in single file through the immigration wicket and when they saw press photographers and TV cameras, lined up dutifully, almost without being asked.

On hand for the greeting in the chilly depths of the wharf rampway were Mayor Percy Scurrell, Ald. Austin Curtis and Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson. Junior Chamber of Commerce president Vic Fuggle also was on hand.

Official welcome for the government Health Minister

Eric Martin arrived on time, but had trouble getting past the small surrounding crowd of dignitaries and interested observers until noticed by the mayor, who waved him through.

Mr. Scurrell was the first to shake a refugee hand, then Mr. Martin.

Speaking extemporaneously while the new arrivals stood almost at attention with little change of expression, the health minister passed greetings.

It was a simple, forthright personal address; no fluffs. Said he: "On behalf of the Province of British Columbia, I welcome you. It is our happy thought you will find in this land peace, contentment and security. You will find we have here many opportunities, and the people will give you much assistance so you can again re-establish yourselves."

"As time goes on you will find a very full measure of political freedom, and that you may indulge in one of the great activities of this province—criticism of the government when that is deserved.

"Success and good luck."

When the interpreter repeated what Mr. Martin said—bit by bit as he went along so to be easily understood—smiles started to appear on weary faces.

Through the interpreter, group spokesman Szabo Lasos replied, also slowly:

"We are very grateful for the reception you have been kind enough to give us. We will take every chance to become good citizens. You can count on us in every possible way to do our utmost to learn the habits and laws of this new country."

The welcome at the wharf took only about 10 minutes before the party was whisked away by immigration officials to the warmth of the federal government building.

It was pathetic to see the few possessions carried—a faded shopping bag; a tiny hamper. Most of the men had no hats; one wore a beret, soiled, but at a jaunty angle.

These were the few simple items they were able to save in their freedom flight from their Communist-dominated homeland.

At the dockside was Father John Planeta, priest in charge of Roman Catholic Church at Lake Hill. He said 11 families in his parish had offered the Hungarians shelter.

"We have also collected two carloads of clothing and food from Lake Hill families. The people of Lake Hill have opened their hearts to these unfortunate people."

Father Planeta himself is a refugee. He fled from Poland ahead of the Nazis in 1939 and came to Canada in 1950. "I know what it is to feel homeless," he said, "but in Canada no one is homeless for long. Canada is always a home away from home."

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Writ by hand by Our Very Own Correspondents)
Editor's note: Our correspondents were queried as follows: "Please send brief analysis municipal election picture your area."

LUNCHVILLE, V.I.—A determined effort to get out a large vote for the municipal elections this year is going to be made. In fact, a meeting was held just yesterday down to Lem's pool hall to form a non-partisan get-out-the-vote association.

The meeting was well attended but failed to form a non-partisan association because everybody began taking sides.

However, the meeting was not entirely unsuccessful, as your correspondent won the door prize, a year's supply of cue chalk.

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—What with Christmas coming and snow and frozen pipes and all very little has been done so far about the municipal elections.

Up to date, very few candidates have come forward though several have gone backward. But this is subject to change. However, this situation may remain much the same as it is because Wobble Hill has not as yet had a municipal government or any municipal officials and we have always found it very difficult to hold municipal elections under these circumstances.

However there is likely to be a very spirited contest for queen of the Yuletide Box Social and Home Cooking sale.

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—Your correspondent has made a careful survey of all the registered voters in Wallopem Beach, and regrets to report that none of the registered voters are going to vote this year.

This is due, in part, to public apathy and lack of a really hot election issue, but possibly an even more important reason is there are no municipal elections slated for this year, this being the off-year, like.

GOON CENTRE, V.I.—There is indeed a great deal of interest in the elections in this bustling, progressive community.

Voters are examining with interest the progressive, forward-looking, intelligent administration given during the past year under the capable guidance of Mayor Abner Goon.

The Mayor, assisted by the advice and council of his active, community-minded wife has done everything possible to make Goon Centre what it is today, and all intelligent voters have agreed to vote for him again.

The Mayor took care of all the other voters by seeing that their names were removed from the voters' list.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

The Ex-Servicemen's Branch of the Canadian Legion will hold a rummage sale on Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Britannia Legion auditorium. The sale will include new and used clothing, jewelry, books, puzzles, toys, miscellaneous articles and a home cooking stall. The proceeds are to be used for Christmas hampers for veterans, widows and pensioners.

A public meeting scheduled for Sunday has been canceled by the Victoria Theosophical Society.

The Esquimalt Golden Age Club will meet in the Community Hall Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Persons unable to call for tickets to Victoria Kinsmen Club's giant bingo, Dec. 17, may make reservations for Memorial Arena seats by calling the ticket desk at Eaton's. To date, 3,900 tickets out of 7,500 have been sold. The club's mystery guest, to be identified at the bingo game, has been selected and will come from Europe at the expense of Kinsmen.

Art Hopping of Vancouver has won the B.C. Centennial poster competition, the centennial committee announced here today.

He will receive $400 for his poster design. Two other Vancouver artists, Herbert Gilbert and George E. Crawford, will receive $100 awards for placing second and third.

Old Age Pensioners' Branch 5, will be guests of the Plaza Theatre next Thursday at 1 p.m.

Members wishing to attend a Christmas dinner in St. John's Hall, Dec. 19, should leave their names with J. C. Williams, 4-1240, or R. H. French, 2-0148.

Premier Bennett flew to Calgary today to address a meeting of the Canadian Petroleum Association. He will return to Victoria Monday.

Due to weather conditions the James Bay Golden Age Club whist drive, scheduled for tonight, has been cancelled.

Also cancelled tonight is a Christmas party planned by the Royal Society of St. George and the Victoria branch, Dickens Fellowship.

Douglas J. Robertson, 521 Langford, and John King, 2504 Government, each were fined $25 in city police court today for failing to file 1955 income tax returns.

Formation of a Victoria branch of the 5,000-member Senior Citizens Association of British Columbia is now under consideration, George E. Edwards, president, said here today.

"Many pensioners living in Victoria would like us to form a local branch," Mr. Edwards said.

The Association now has 40 branches throughout B.C.

Community singing and the Oak Bay High School Hand Bell Ringers will highlight Victoria Lions' annual Christmas Carol Festival at Metropolitan United Church tonight at 8.

Also on the two-hour program, arranged by Harry Bigsby, supervisor of music for Greater Victoria schools, will be carol selections by the Sir James Douglas choir, Willows Elementary School choir, Lansdowne Junior High School girls' choir, Esquimalt High School girls' glee club, Mount View High glee club and Jubilee Hospital Student Nurses' glee club.

The world's tallest totem at Beacon Hill Park so far has withstood the rigors of winter without damage.

City Engineer James Garnett and the associates who helped him design the support for the pole calculated it would live through gale force winds. It has already been tested by winds up to 60 miles an hour, and still stands proudly.

Singh Harbajan Bhandar, 722 Roderick, was fined $25 in Saanich police court Thursday for failing to file a 1954 income tax return.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Gary E. Mortimer, Work Point Barracks, $35, careless driving when he collided with another car near an overpass on Esquimalt Road near Harbor Road.

Harold Potentier, 975 Fairfield, $35, careless driving Nov. 25 as the result of a two-car collision at Cook and Fairfield which caused $400 damage to each car.

Horace Garfield Taylor, 651 Alpha, $10, inadequate muffler, and $5, no rear light.

John Richard Gowans, Sooke, $20, speeding at 50 miles an hour on Government and $10 for failing to display his car registration in a conspicuous place.

HUNGARIAN SHOWS DELIGHT

Babies Are Babies -- In Any Language

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

When a man cannot express himself in words he sometimes looks around for something tangible that will convey his feelings.

So it was with slim, blue-eyed Imre Horvat, 25-year-old Hungarian refugee, when he arrived in Victoria Thursday and was taken into the bright new home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kissinger at 3941 Cumberland.

Imre speaks no English as yet—so could not express his delight. But when he saw five-month-old Sydne Kissinger kicking her legs on the living room rug, he knew what to do. He picked up the chubby bundle and exclaimed delightedly in Hungarian as he rocked her to and fro...

Motor Mechanic

The conventional ice was broken so far as Mr. and Mrs. Kissinger were concerned—and, soon after, Imre was sitting down to a typical Canadian dinner. Host and hostess kept up a pleasant chatter, while Imre talked with the baby in her own particular language.

Imre was a motor mechanic in Budapest before the Russian vengeance, and he is hoping someone in Victoria will be able to make use of his experience.

Through an interpreter, he spoke of his delight in coming to a country where people say more or less what they like.

Land of Islands

Imre Szabo, 31-year-old electrical fitter, said the trip from Vancouver to Victoria was the most magnificent he could remember.

"All those little islands along the way—I have never seen anything like them. British Columbia is a land of islands. It is all so grand."

Dark, good-looking John Piro, who has cooked goulash in some of the best restaurants in Budapest, looked across the inner harbor to the stately, ivy-clad Empress and was interpreted as saying:

"Everything is so quiet. I like this quiet."

Persecuted

An engaged couple—Joseph Nagy and Theresa Toth—were among the refugees who came to Victoria at the invitation of a local family.

"We became engaged in Vienna," tall, blue-eyed Joseph said. "We had much in common. Both our families had been persecuted. We wanted to find a new life in Canada. We decided we would seek that new life in Canada."

The words of these refugees, translated into English, sounded stilted and formal. But the truth showed in them.

Cars for Rich

"So many people have cars—In Hungary only the rich can afford them," said 27-year-old Szilard Kolzar, a laute operator who plays the violin in his leisure moments.

"How much money do you have to earn to own a car?"

On being told that Canadians earning $300 a month own cars, he replied that he and most of his friends had never earned the equivalent of more than $100 a month.

Istvan Kormendy, 29-year-old motor mechanic, was welcomed to Victoria by Emil Irving Dery, an engineer in the B.C. Forest Service.

Mr. Dery left Hungary in 1949 ahead of the Communists and fled into Switzerland. In 1952, with his wife and son, he came to Canada and two years ago settled in Victoria.

"Life here is so different," Mr. Dery said. "It will take quite a while for our new friends to become adjusted. But I know they will adapt themselves to Canada as I did and as many others have done."

"We went to a factory where they made guns for the Russians and we got weapons from a warehouse. I had a machine gun."

"We went back to the radio station and gave guns to the crowd. This was the first street fight with the Russians. The Hungarians took over the radio station for 10 minutes, but when the Russian armored cars got there we were driven back."

Soviet Soldiers Assisted Rebels

Hungarian Refugee Tells Of Turncoats in Budapest

By AB KENT

Russian soldiers joined rebels in Budapest to turn arms against Soviet domination during October's bloody uprising, a Hungarian refugee said here Thursday.

The turncoats, he said, were some members of the Red army garrison in the Hungarian capital, who, through living among the citizens came to sympathize with them.

Alexander Hogye, 27, a machine-gun-wielding street fighter five weeks ago, arrived with the first party of refugees to seek new lives in Victoria.

Dark, good-looking Hogye showed the marks of strain and conflict in somewhat prematurely-aged features, but came out of the fighting without wounds.

He had been a party to the revolution from the first day—Oct. 23—when university students and other young men and women began a peaceful demonstration of their longing to be free.

His story was pieced together through three interpreters, one a soldier in the Canadian army who fled from Hungary himself and met refugees at the dock Thursday in hopes of learning of his family, now known to have reached Vienna in safety. Hogye did not talk readily about the uprising.

CHAUFFEUR

He was anxious to know whether he would be able to get a licence allowing him to drive a truck here. In Budapest he had been a chauffeur.

Hogy, a bachelor, "I have no dependents so it is all right to use my name," said he lived in Akarfa Street, a sector where some of the big battles with Red soldiers and AVH (Soviet secret police) took place.

Hogy began his story hesitantly. "We were always afraid of the Russians, but we have such a bad feeling about the uprising we would rather forget it."

An interpreter explained: "This is not like Hungary. The people in Canada want to know of the things which happened." She turned to the reporter. "In Hungary they are always afraid to say something."

He went on: "It started peacefully by the young students, the boys and girls demonstrating on the streets with Hungarian flags. They sang the national hymn. I was among them."

"We went to one of the Hungarian heroes' monuments—Peto Sandor, the great hero of the revolution against Russia in 1848."

SHOT AT CROWD

"Some of the students and crowds were around a radio station. There were AVH guards around it and they began shooting at the crowd."

"We went to a factory where they made guns for the Russians and we got weapons from a warehouse. I had a machine gun."

"We went back to the radio station and gave guns to the crowd. This was the first street fight with the Russians. The Hungarians took over the radio station for 10 minutes, but when the Russian armored cars got there we were driven back."

STREET FIGHTERS

"Most of the people hid their guns under their coats and the crowd broke up a little. We became street fighters."

"We went to the Hungarian National Theatre and destroyed two Russian armored cars. Then we went to the garrisons and there was a big fight there."

"The people made surprise attacks on the Russians, fighting from one district to the next. They continued street fighting to the end of October."

"I traveled with the revolutionaries all this time."

"If the Russians brought reinforcements at night, the people would throw their home-made bombs at them from the windows of the houses into the streets."

"RUSSIANS HELPED"

"Some of the Russians felt like the people and fought with the rebels against the Russians. And they would drive up to the fighting in tanks, then leave the tanks and disappear."

"Was he sure these were Russians or Hungarian Communist soldiers?"

"They were real Russians."

At last the rebels could do no more and the street fighting ended.

"It came to the point where we ran out of ammunition."

"I was very tired and went home. I walked to another town, Pilisvörösvár, 32 miles away and closer to the Austrian border. Then I rode in a Red Cross truck to Gyor, where I saw my father."

"I rode on a Red Cross truck again to the border town of Hegyeshalom. We could not have gone back because the Russians encircled the city to force the people to give up."

"Then I walked across the border." It was Nov. 3.

'CURSE THEM' MEANS THANKS

The Hungarian language is one of the most difficult languages to translate, according to Andrew Dery of Victoria, who helped as an interpreter when the Hungarian refugees arrived in Victoria Thursday.

"It's a descriptive language," he said, after being chided by a newspaperman for taking so long to translate Hungarian into English.

He warned that if you hear a Hungarian saying something like "curse on them," he is not angry or unfriendly.

"The words 'curse on em' in Hungarian mean 'thank you,' he said.

CONFERENCE RESOLUTION

Foresters Welcome Hungarian Cohorts

Highlight of resolutions passed today by the Western Forestry and Conservation Association in convention at the Empress Hotel was one welcoming the Hungarian Forestry School soon to arrive in British Columbia as refugees.

The school includes 338 students and faculty members.

"The association knows they will find in Canada a sympathetic reception and the freedom and opportunity they have been denied by their oppressors," the resolution read.

OTTAWA LAUDED

The 500-member association, ending its three-day convention, commended the Canadian government and others for the invitation sent and "feels that the Powell River Company has acted in our North American tradition in making it possible for the young men and teachers to find a place for continuing their studies."

It was also resolved that the association urge both Canadian and United States weather bureau program expansions to satisfy fire-control needs.

This would be done through stepped-up consultations with Western Forestry Protection Associations and foresters.

Newly-named association president is George C. Flanagan, of the Elk Lumber Company, Medford, Ore., succeeding John E. Liersch, Powell River Company Ltd., Vancouver, who was named to the executive committee and a trustee for B.C.

Other B.C. trustees named were Ross Douglas, Alaska

Pine and Cellulose Ltd., Vancouver, and Otis D. Hallin, vice-president, timber, Crown-Zellerbach of Canada Ltd., Vancouver.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Wintertime Tables Glow With Many-Hued Blooms

By PENNY SAVER

Vegetable stands were off the sidewalks into the shelter of stores when I went shopping this morning. Yet, even though the streets are blanketed and walking is a bit difficult, shopping for weekend foodstuffs is necessary. Before I gathered prices of the fresh produce, I noticed in the window masses of flowers that can brighten your rooms, and make it springtime even in the midst of a blizzard. White beehive chrysanthemums are 45 cents a bunch, and beehive mums are the same price. Mammoth mums in white or a golden yellow tinged with bronze are three and four for $1 and bouquets of button mums in a variety of shades cost from 69 to 75 cents. There are daisies and carnations, also, to make your rooms cheery.

On the vegetable stands, I saw California green onions at 21 cents for two bunches, and green beans at 45 cents a pound. Savoy cabbages are 19 cents each, and green cabbage, 25 cents a pound. Broccoli is 20 cents a pound and sprouts are 25 cents a pound. Leeks are 10 cents a bunch, and locally-grown cauliflower are 25 cents each.

Okanagan delicious apples are $1.95 a box and a junior box is $2.49. These are good for snacks during the holiday season. Mandarin oranges are $1.45 a box, $2.85 per bundle or two pounds for 39 cents. Regular, juicy oranges for juice or snacks are 69 cents for a five-pound bag.

Mince meat for your holiday time pies sells in bottles at 32, 33, 39, and 45 cents a jar. Something a bit different is cranberry juice. A bottle makes a full quart of cranberry juice cocktail. Appropriate for Christmas! With the bottle, which costs 79 cents, is a recipe folder with suggestions for cranberry sherbet, salad, punch or pies. Fresh cranberries in one-pound boxes are 35 cents and tins of cranberry sauce are two for 49 cents.

All who like different and tasty cheese will appreciate the attractive packages of Swiss cheese that I saw in a downtown store. The top of the angled box is of clear plastic, so that you can see the bright wedges of cheese. This package would make a novel Christmas present for someone on your list. It costs $1.45.

On Etiquette

Question about place settings: Would you please discuss the proper place for the fork when no knife is needed. My mother taught me to place the fork on the right if no knife is needed, but I seem to be the only one who does this. The other night there were eight of us at my house for a dessert bridge party. I had my tables set with silver, napkins, centerpieces and coffee cups. The forks and spoons were at the right. A friend, thinking I had failed to place them properly, carefully put all the forks on the left.

Louise Davis answers: Your mother was correct in teaching you that both fork and spoon are placed at the right when there is no need for a knife. The reasoning is logical, for at no time (for a right-handed person) is the fork held in the left hand—when it is alone. Therefore, it is simpler and less awkward to pick up the fork with the right hand. Your guest had no right to make the change, even had you actually placed the silver incorrectly. She was twice wrong. To be sure, she was trying to save face for you in her own peculiar and thoughtless way (thinking she was right), but she overstepped. Friends and acquaintances don't correct others who make social errors. Why then should they take liberties by pointing out other trivial mistakes which in your case was no mistake?

More Color and Durability Leather Fashions Change;

Never has there been a season back, patch pockets, welt seams, when leather garments have been notched collars, and the old-fashioned more lovely in style, color, and leather trenchcoat version will hold type. Designers seem to have their own. Leather garments are high-captured the method of handling leather like they handle fabric, styled with mink accents on plain Smooth-grained leather garments or pearlized coats. Raccoon, leopard, and fox trim seem to be more in keeping with leather fashions. You'll find leather and fabric combined in both active and spectator sportswear. Tweed-like wool jersey is being combined with suede; tweed insert bandings with smooth-grained leathers. The National Institute of Dry-cleaning advises that leather items require special care in cleaning. Consult your drycleaner on the care and cleaning of your new leather fashions.

This year there is a strong trend to the full length coat. Three-tier sectioning of the long leather coats offers a new look. Fullness in the full-length coat spells formality. But classic designs, such as the "little boy" coat with its belted side Room.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Attractive Girl Must Be Attentive to Girls, Too

Q. "You might think it is funny enough to do and are, therefore, that I have this kind of problem but it disturbs me. I am fifteen years old and I have a 37-inch bust, 24-inch waist and 37-inch hips. I am five feet five and one-half and weigh 122 pounds. My trouble is that the boys like me and the girls say I am too sexy and criticize me. I like boys but I want the girls to like me, too. I am sure it is not the way I act. Please give me some help."

A. You have a very attractive figure, one which few women have. This is especially true at your age. Also, you probably have a good personality. Perhaps your girl friends are a little jealous of you, maybe without realizing it themselves. I judge from your letter that your conduct is what it should be. However, it would be perfectly natural, unless you deliberately correct the tendency, to neglect the girls when having so much attention from the boys.

When in a group, see to it that you bring the other girls into the conversation and fun. Address some of your remarks to them and be rather attentive to them. I believe this will solve the problem. This will not scare the boys off to the contrary.

Q. "My sister-in-law, who is a healthy person, stays in bed very late and doesn't get up to get her husband's breakfast or to see him off to work in the morning. She doesn't have any children and has her heavy weekly cleaning done by maid. Yet she is tired and exhausted. I can't understand why, after sleeping all night, she can't get up and face the day."

A. I go to work and feel fine in the morning and she claims that I am living on my nerves. Do you think all women who go to work, like yourself, are living on their nerves because they don't stay home and stay in bed most the day?"

A. Nope! I do not think that women who go to work are living on their nerves. In fact, I think women are likely to develop "nerves" if they do not have

This idea of seeing one's husband off in the morning with a bright smile is sometimes a routine couples go through for years when both the man and woman would prefer otherwise. It is very frustrating for a woman to get up, put on an attractive negligee and some make-up and sit at the breakfast table and never say a word and not be spoken to. Of course, there is always the chance that your sister-in-law may be plain indolent and lazy. But if your brother doesn't mind, why should you? If she is tired all day long she should consult a physician.

Expert Gives Novel Christmas Parcel Tips

Would you like to know more about the art of wrapping a gift so that packages reflect your skill and cleverness instead of being productions of lumpy paper and knotted string? Many would, judging from the lecture schedules of experts on the subject and the fact that the gift wrap industry has become an estimated $90,000,000-a-year business.

Not only at Christmas—all through the year you're called upon to dress up gifts for children, birthdays, anniversaries and weddings.

Choose Own Color Theme

Fluffy bows are made by gathering loops of ribbon and tying tightly in the centre. Some types of gift ribbon have instructions on the back of each cardboard roll.

If you're using a patterned paper, match the ribbon's shade to a color that's in the pattern, not to one that's in the background.

At Christmas, especially, it's thrifty—and just as effective—to pick a color scheme and stick to it. This permits you to buy paper and ribbon in the large, economy rolls. And if the color scheme isn't strictly seasonal, you can use the leftovers for other occasions.

The trend, according to Miss Lucille, is toward tape-tone wrappings in such combinations as blue and green, or blue and gold, or blue and light blue, gold and yellow.

Gold or silver wrapping papers also permit a wide variety of effects. For example, a silver-wrapped box can take a

Tie Trinkets to Parcels

Lucille also likes the use of trinkets tied on "special occasion" packages. For a child (especially if the gift itself is more practical than thrilling) lollipops, a toy whistle, balloon or tiny animal adds glamor to the package. Dangle doll shoes on the baby present, add a tiny auto to the traveler's gift, tie a couple of miniature birds or butterflies to the get-well gift.

Sometimes the shape of the box suggests a design; a square box with alphabet letters cut from paper or tape looks like a red poinsettia decoration at Christmas, or a flitter-decked pink or white bow if it's for a wedding gift.

A poinsettia is made of tapered lengths of ribbon, tied in the middle and taped to a thin wire which has been covered with green ribbon. A flower pot for the poinsettias can be made by cutting graduated lengths of ribbon and cellophane, then taping them together across the back.

Flitter or glitter from the dime store adds professional sparkle to many packages. Miss Lucille brushes clear nail polish over ribbon edges, then scatters glitter on the still-damp polish.

Another trick is to dip the sticky side of cellulose or gift wrap tapes in flitter and secure them in a design on the package with colored tape. Or you can cut diamond-shaped openings in the loops of bows, stick cellulose tape to the underside and dip in flitter to get a stunning effect.

child's block; the rectangular box (holding a man's tie, perhaps) can be trimmed up with dots to resemble a domino.

And to wrap a cylindrical box neatly, try this suggestion: Put box end-to-end on wrong side of paper, trace edges with pencil. Draw another circle about two inches larger and cut on outer circle. Clip in points about six times around the circle and tape to box side.

Then circle the cylinder and hide the points with a band of paper cut to the exact height of the box.

Your frig will gleam for Christmas if you do that job of thoroughly cleaning it now.

Give Your Refrigerator Treatment It Deserves for Christmas Season

Before the holidays, it's your honor-bound duty to the turkey and his festive confreres to give the refrigerator a thorough top-to-bottom sprucing. That means a complete defrosting . . . an inventory of what foods you take out . . . elimination of anything that isn't 100 per cent fresh. For the actual cleaning, most refrigerator manufacturers advise baking soda. It won't scratch the delicate surface; it removes musty food odors by emulsifying greasy film that traps them; it prolongs the life of the gasket . . . the rubber insulating strip around the door; and it's completely safe to use since it's a pure food product.

Here's how to approach the job methodically. Wipe every inside inch of the refrigerator with a damp sponge sprinkled with dry baking soda. Use a little more soda and a little more rubbing power on sticky spill spots as well as the gasket. Rinse with a clean damp sponge.

Next, for approximately every quart of water needed to fill the sink, add three tablespoons of soda. This solution is for washing the ice trays, the vegetable storage bin, meat tray and shelves. Swish each around in the sink for a few minutes. The shelves may require a brush and an application of dry soda to loosen the dried-on food particles.

You've finished the job now, and the turkey can take up residence in a shiny fresh refrigerator.

TODAY'S RECIPE

MOCHA BALLS

One large (7 oz.) box vanilla wafers; 2 cups confectioners' sugar; ½ cup finely chopped nuts; 2 tablespoons cocoa; ¼ cup heavy cream; ¼ cup double-strength, cold coffee. Crush vanilla wafers into fine crumbs (there should be 2 cups). Add sugar and mix well. Stir in nuts and cocoa. Add cream and coffee. Mix well and shape into balls about ¾-inch in diameter. Roll some of the balls in additional confectioners' sugar. Chill. (Do not bake.) Makes about 4 dozen.

Queen's Chaplain Weds Non-Christian

LONDON. (Reuters) — Canon Charles Raven, personal chaplain to the Queen, was married Thursday to a Belgian wartime heroine who, he says, does not call herself a Christian.

Canon Raven, twice married previously, is 71 years old. His bride, Helene Jentry, is 52.

Bachelor Cook in National Contest Learned His Art in Logging Camp

TORONTO (CP)—Vincent Duffy, 40-year-old bachelor cook with the Canadian National Railways at Gaspe, Que., will compete with nine women in a national cooking contest sponsored by a Canadian packing company in Toronto next Tuesday.

Duffy's recipe for doughnuts was among the top 10 chosen from more than 100,000 recipes submitted.

Duffy says he has never attended a cooking class in his life. He learned to cook in a lumber camp near Alma, N.B.

The other finalists are Mrs. Alfred Beaupre, St. Lin des Laurentides, Que., cherry fritters; Mrs. E. Bayeroff, Lajord, Sask., lemon pie; Mrs. John Bushko, tutifrutti pie; Mrs. Douglas Vegreville, Alta., velvet cake; Mrs. Margaret Gordon, Edmonton, susanna fruit wreath, and orody, Windsor, Ont., Hungarian cheese cake; Mrs. William Mogy, Mrs. E. F. Ashwin, Mission City, cakes; Mrs. M. B. Mann, Winni-B.C., apple juice cake.

Traditional or Modern—Christmas Is the Time for Tasteful Foods

Christmas is a time of traditions . . . and we would be the last to upset the scheme of things. So count us in for turkey and trimmings—and plum pudding too. But, just as decorating experts have been moving us into blues and pinks and turquoise, in our Christmas color scheme, we have ideas about blending the modern with the traditional in the food line.

If you steer strictly by tradition, then fit these recipes into holiday entertaining, other than the Christmas menu. The Cheese Souffléed Broccoli will be wonderful after the hanging of the greens ceremony . . . along with cold meats and potato chips. The Rosy-Cinnamon Pear Salad will do honors for you at a Christmas week luncheon, or make a buffet festive . . . and the French Chocolate Cream, every bit as rich as Plum Pudding, will do you proud at a Christmas time "dessert and coffee" do.

Do take your choice . . . feature these holiday food combinations on your Christmas menu, or add them in turn to this month's party line-ups. As for us, we'll take the traditional AND the modern all in one meal, thank you . . . and leave the battle of the bulge for a New Year's challenge! After all—

Christmas only comes once a year!

CHEESE SOUFFLE BROCCOLI

One large head broccoli or 2 (10 ounce) packages frozen broccoli, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, ½ cup broccoli stock, ½ cup evaporated milk, ½ cup grated Canadian cheddar cheese, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon monosodium glutamate (optional), ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, dash of cayenne, 2 eggs, separated, paprika.

Trim and wash broccoli. Separate into florets and cook about 8 minutes, or cook frozen broccoli in boiling salted water about 5 minutes. Arrange florets in a single layer in a buttered 8x8x2 inch baking dish. In top of double boiler melt butter and stir in flour. Add the reserved broccoli broth and evaporated milk and stir constantly until thickened. Add cheese, salt, pepper, monosodium glutamate, mustard and cayenne. Cool and taste sauce. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Then blend in 2 slightly beaten egg yolks. Fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread evenly over broccoli and dust with paprika. Bake in a hot oven (425°F) 20 minutes or until lightly browned. (Makes 4 to 6 servings).

ROSY-CINNAMON PEAR SALAD

Two (20-ounce) cans pear halves, pear syrup plus water to make 2 cups liquid, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup sugar, 2 cinnamon sticks, 12 drops red food coloring, 1 (4 ounce) package cream cheese, ½ cup finely diced celery, ½ cup finely diced apple. (Makes 8 servings.)

Drain pear halves and arrange in a large flat dish. Put remaining ingredients into a saucepan and simmer uncovered for 10 minutes. Cool. Pour syrup over pear halves and refrigerate. Turn frequently so that color will be absorbed evenly. Drain before serving. Soften the cream cheese. Add celery and apple. Fill the cavity of each pear half with a teaspoon of this mixture. Put matching pear halves together and stand upright on a lettuce leaf. Garnish with the remainder of the cream cheese mixture.

NUDES ON AUSSIE BEACH

Wild Party Charged To Olympic Athletes

SYDNEY (AP)—Sydney police are investigating stories of a riotous party held Wednesday night by some British and American athletes at Coogee beach. Police claim the athletes—some nude and others in under-pants—ran wild on the beach for several hours.

Team managers and members denied any high jinks when asked about the party today.

Rev. Bob Richard, who won the Olympic pole vault for the U.S. in the Olympic Games at Melbourne, said: "I am really disgusted."

Pointing to the newspaper picture, he added: "Doesn't it look as if someone was looking for a story before it ever happened?"

Other American athletes said they were puzzled by the stories

But as soon as the police got around the corner the athletes began their fun all over again, he said.

One British athlete said: "The Americans were here until well after 4 o'clock this morning. Most of them were just playing around on the beach. They were swimming and fooling around. That's all I can tell you, but give them a break."

Sydney police have not laid any charges.

One complaint to police said an American sounded the beach shark alarm and woke up everyone in the area.

Police said residents complained and the athletes obediently returned to their hotels when asked by police.

The manager of the Coogee Bay Hotel denied there had been any wild party on the premises. Asked about his wrecked fence, he could only mutter, "Well, I don't know. It has been very shaky for some time. It could have fallen over during the night."

The manager said the Americans were "a wonderful group who couldn't be nicer guests."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

SATURDAY, DEC. 8, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Argument with one who has power in your life could be unusually unwise at this time. Instead, listen to what progressive friend has to suggest and think out ways to make this work in your life.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Being all steamed up about some frustration makes you feel you want to toss everything over and go to some new site, friends. Instead, think out what is best for you in a worldly way and be guided by this standpoint.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Your new hopes and wishes conflict with the funds you have available or the commitments already made by you. Seek more modern methods for handling and listen to what an experienced newcomer has to tell you for best results.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Battle between partner and official, your job and outside contact can engulf you in tense situation. All you need do is look at your own obligations and be sure you follow them and you save everyone trouble that ensues if you also fight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—You want security and you also want to spend considerable for fun. Well, with your expensive tastes and current income and taxes you can't have both. Try to compromise on listening to manner in which original associate manages to do both.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—You have assumed certain obligations and responsibilities which you must carry through if you are to retain the good will of those interesting contacts. After attending to these, you can enjoy yourself at proven pleasures of your choice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Member of family or household does not at all approve of hasty acting by brilliant associate whose opinion you value and whom you wish to retain as colleague. Don't get in discussions with either. Go your own way quietly to soothe all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You are so anxious to get your job done and get off to some visit, call, new arrangement, that you can damage or harm possessions or property. There's all the time you need. Going along in greater harmony with family helps matters now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You have lots of ideas that are modern and that will bring you much pleasure today. But you also have definite financial commitments or duties where property, taxes, etc., are concerned. Be sure to maintain balance in supply, demands now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You are naturally conservative and you are faced with a situation concerning one who acts more on impulse and who you fear will endanger your basic security. Instead of working angles in continuous opposition, sit down and talk it out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Your own ideas are far better than those of secret informers and confidantes as well as relatives and business companions. While their ideas are at loggerheads with each other, you have original ideas, methods that solve your problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Side-step both friends and financial advisors today and get the views of those who have had the background of experience. It's necessary you do so quietly and privately if you are to avoid antagonizing supporter. But you can get answer this way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SATURDAY...

Saturday's child is one of those very astute and resourceful youngsters who will use any means to attain his or her ends unless you teach the value of honor, integrity and principle in early life. Then your progeny will be a very fine person who will see the justice of any situation and who will have the alertness and the ingenuity to adapt modern and current inventions and systems to make a success of his or her life as well as be of service to all who are about or toward whom your child is drawn.

SUNDAY, DEC. 9, 1956

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—After early attending the services of your choice and getting relief there from mental tensions, you will find that you can devise a system of co-operation with others that will be excellent in days to come. P.M. show you can be romantic.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Be careful early that you do not have too good an errand hunt that can do you more harm than good, especially in dealing with others. Later you can get together with friends and partners and really have a ball. Let them know your desires.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Make sure you do or say nothing early that could cause anyone to look askance at you, for you could lose worthwhile contact. Later you see how you can do your job better at home, office, on the road, with selling so that officials approve of you.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Do nothing that could alienate a co-worker or make your own duties more difficult to perform. Later you can get off to an attractive place with deeply sincere person and have a jolly time. Have fun. Be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Do or say nothing that could cause any condition to arise at home which would take from your well-being. Be sure to use A.M. to tactfully straighten out obstacles and do your job better. P.M. fine for devising better financial, family methods.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Now you are all too inclined early to make comments that would raise the ire of those who have memories of elephants and who would later make you pay for such remarks. Later you can visit close companions and have happy evenings. Be active.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Mental worry, anxiety helps no one, least of all you and the condition about which you may be depressed. Go to services early and live happy principles there enunciated. P.M. finds you able to organize coming days and work intelligently, as you wish.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You are apt to feel insecure in the morning. Following accepted principles changes this to feeling of strength, well-being. Later you can have a happy time the way you most enjoy. Contact delightful companions and have fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—This is no day for you to be personal, subjective. Let others see you can be objective and look at the overall picture. Then you have excellent day. P.M. fine for quietly enjoying yourself at home. Relax and be happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Worry never solved any problem and it won't help your situation this morning. Rather think out how your anxiety can be solved sensibly. Then you tune up and can get out and find the answers you need. P.M. be with friends and close ties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Harassed acquaintance can fill you with all sorts of tiresome, dull or dismal stuff early if you listen. Instead remember the things you have to be grateful for and you don't get depressed. P.M. brings support from experienced higher-up.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Keep out of the way of one who has considerable power and who is looking for whipping boy on whom to vent his ill humor. Study quietly worthwhile precepts. Later you can make the acquaintance of interesting person who opens unknown vistas.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SUNDAY...

Sunday's child is one of those very conscientious youngsters who will just have to learn everything, and if it's necessary that some be learned the hard way, you can be grateful that such lessons as your offspring learns in such manner will never be forgotten but will be pursued to great advantage in the more mature years of his or her life. Fine chart for studying schools of thought of all kinds and arriving finally at the correct solutions, which many other persons never get! Leave fine books by your growing child's bed.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Randi Ballard, 13, City View, Ont., for the question:

How Is the Air Fixed Around the Earth?

Randi has a very original idea about the filmy air that surrounds our round world. Maybe it is arranged in a great hoop along the earth's orbit around the sun. The earth would stay in this filmy circle of air as it traveled along on its 600 million miles yearly path. That way we would have new air every day and leave yesterday's air behind us. That used up air would have a whole year to become fresh for us to breathe on our next trip around.

Andy says that is a very thoughtful piece of wondering and very reasonable. But the air is actually clutched in a filmy blanket around the world. It is held there by the pull of earth's gravity—the force which makes dropped things fall to the ground. Only a few tiny air molecules hundreds of miles above our heads ever manage to escape. These fragments must whip up speeds of almost seven miles a second in order to escape the earth's big hug and such speeds are not likely.

The air higher up feels less of the earth's pull of gravity. For the farther we go from the center of a body, the less we feel its pull. And the center of earth's gravity is right in the middle of the big round ball. It is not surprising, then, to learn that the thickest, densest air is hugged closest to the ground. Higher up, the shell of filmy air around the globe gets thinner and thinner. Somewhere beyond 600 miles above our heads it finally peters out. Beyond that is empty space.

This shell of filmy air travels with the earth on our yearly journey around the sun. There is no need to leave behind yesterday's used up air and take a fresh supply for today. For the old earth has her own tricks for keeping her blanket of air forever clean and breathable. There is always plenty of fresh air and to spare for all the plants and animals in the world.

The filmy air is washed clean by the rain, the mists and the clouds. Bits of dust, dirt and smoke in the atmosphere tend to stick to cloud droplets and fall down to earth in the rain.

PTA ACTIVITIES

Willows Hears School Choir Tuesday Night

Willows School choir, under the direction of Miss Margaret Patterson, will entertain Willows PTA at a meeting in the school auditorium one week early, Monday at 8 p.m.

December meeting of Cloverdale PTA will be held in the school auditorium one week early, Monday at 8 p.m.

Recent PTA Fun Fair, opened by Mrs. Arthur Ash, netted $480. She received a corsage from the president, Mrs. H. Ward.

In charge of stalls were: Miss B. Hagerman, white elephant; Mrs. S. T. Reilly, sewing; Mrs. A. G. Clatworthy, home cooking; Mrs. H. Tipping, candy; Mrs. A. Robinson, plants; Mrs. Ward, raffles; Mrs. N. Carnsua, refreshments; Mrs. B. Cavin, ice cream; Mrs. M. Fisher and Miss B. Johnson, soft drinks; S. Ratcliffe, games; H. Ward, bingo.

Co-conveners were Mrs. D. Brumwell and Mrs. H. McKeever.

Belgium Ducks Gas Rationing

BRUSSELS (AP)—Gasoline will not be rationed in Belgium. Economic Minister Jean Rey told the House of Representatives Thursday. The Sunday driving ban will remain, and gas retailers will still get 80 per cent of their normal supply.

NEW ARRIVAL:

Male German shepherd, found on Bay St. A cut leg has been stitched and he's waiting for his boss to claim him.

READY FOR ADOPTION:

Bridget is a portly little West Highland white, six years old. Spayed female.

A lovely golden cocker, 11 months, female, is Suzie. Friendly and intelligent.

Bright, friendly, handsome black spaniel cross, five months old. Male.

At least one side of the family is German shepherd, and this 11-week-old pup—you name her—should grow into a lovely dog.

Scamper is a male spaniel-type, nine months old, black, intelligent, friendly.

Sparky's people are moving a long way away... too far to take this soft-eyed, gentle black and white spaniel with them. One year old, female.

Big, sad-eyed, droop-jowled Pongo is as good a Newfoundland as you'll ever meet—except in the unfortunate matter of chickens. Two years old, male.

A sort of Zazu Pitts of dogdom is Trevy—a big, good natured, rather unusual combination of border collie and airedale. One year old, female.

British Herring In Short Supply

GREAT YARMOUTH, England (Reuters)—Fishermen here report that this year's herring catch was the smallest in peacetime for more than a century.

Boots, a rough-coated terrier, is almost a model for the original shaggy dog. He's one year old, apparently has had an unfortunate experience with young children as he doesn't like them—but he's a good house dog.

Short-haired terrier type, male, three years old. Name's Fatsy, but he isn't really.

Och, ay, and here's a bonnie doggie—black and brown Scottie, 3½ years, very patient with children and a good watchdog.

Yule Invitations For Servicemen Being Sought

Citizens who will have room to share all or part of their Christmas season with servicemen are sought by Armed Services Leave Centre, 1314A Government.

Hundreds of soldiers, sailors and airmen serving here will be unable to go home for Christmas or New Year's—many will be on duty at least part of each holiday—but citizens in the past have opened their homes to the young men to make the season happier for them.

Leave centre is co-ordinating invitations to servicemen and will accept telephone calls between noon and midnight Monday-Saturday at 2-0771.

Christmas or New Year's dinners are most important, but invitations could be for any part of the holiday season.

Queen at Sandringham For Christmas Season

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen and the Royal Family will gather at Sandringham, the Queen's country home in eastern England, this year to spend Christmas. Absent will be the Duke of Edinburgh, who on Christmas Day will be in the south Pacific aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

"J.M.M.": It is estimated that it will require 2,000 tons of firewood for the use of Scouts at the 9th world jamboree next year in England. Over 135,000 gallons of milk will be needed, 274,000 loaves of bread, 423,000 bread-rolls, 16 tons of butter, 14 tons of coffee. These will feed the 30,000 Scouts and leaders who will celebrate the 50th anniversary of Scouting.

Safe Drivers to Get Their Reward in Cash

Safe driving records will pay off in cash next year.

Drivers with good no-claim records may pay less for their automobile insurance rates, although average B.C. rates are up about 8 per cent.

This reverses a three-year downward trend and brings rates back to the 1955 level.

The over-all increase was caused by Canada's serious auto-accident situation, and reductions granted in certain classes as an incentive to continued safe driving.

In 1957, for instance, the driver who has completed three years without an accident claim will be eligible for a 30 per cent discount off regular rates instead of 25 per cent this year and 20 per cent in 1955.

A driver with two years without claims will be eligible for a discount of 20 per cent instead of 15 per cent, offered for the first time this year.

Rounding out the picture is the new 10 per cent discount for drivers who have gone a full year without a claim.

Full-time farmers will get an automatic 20 per cent discount on the amount they pay in bodily injury, property damage and collision premiums.

In two-car families, if the driving record is good, the second car will be subject to a 25 per cent discount, over and above any for which the drivers may be eligible.

Passenger hazard coverage will be added with no increase in payments.

The Greater Victoria area has a record of the lowest ratings in the province.

HUNGARIAN PATRIOT

'Student Aid Vital' Says Budapest Refugee

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Hungarian students in Austria need help—need all the assistance they can get—a former Budapest student, who spent five years in concentration camp because he opposed the Communist regime, said here today.

The ex-student, Louis Szabo, 34, who helped organize the student revolution in Hungary, arrived here Thursday from Vancouver with a group of 15 young Hungarian refugees aboard the CPR's Princess Joan.

They arrived Tuesday in Vancouver on the "Freedom Express" flight from Austria. "I was living among 300 students in a particular quarter in Vienna before I came here," he said. "The students need help. They are impoverished."

Mr. Szabo said the Austrian people were doing all they could to help the students and refugees arriving in their country. "Believe me, the Austrians are wonderful people," he said. "They are poor people who have suffered much due to the war and Russian occupation. They have done all within their power for us, but they can't possibly look after the thousands of Hungarians fleeing into their country."

Mr. Szabo praised The Times fund to assist Hungary's fighting students. There could not be a better cause, he said.

Beads of perspiration broke out on Szabo's forehead as he recalled the incidents which led to the student uprising in Hungary. He had taken an active part in a plot to oust the Communist regime, and one of his speeches to a student gathering helped to fan the flames of revolution.

Szabo said when the students first broke out in armed rebellion all went well and no guns were used.

"I was among them," he said, "but when they started to bring in tanks and troops of Asiatic origin all was over."

"The streets were bombed from the air," he said. "Blood flowed in streets of Budapest. Men, women, children died."

Szabo planned to become a chemical engineer, but his studies were interrupted in 1946 when he was placed in concentration camp for opposing the Communists. He was released from the camp in 1951 and worked in various factories and towns until the revolution.

Szabo said he does not plan to continue his university training in Canada, but to develop a few inventions which he has been working on for some time. "First I must work hard and earn some money," he said.

B.C. to Build $4 Million Fraser Span

Tenders will be called next spring for construction of a new $4,000,000 bridge across the Fraser river at Spuzzum. Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi announced today.

It will replace the Alexandra Suspension Bridge built in 1929 and will have a two-lane arch span. "We shall build it south of the present span at a more suitable site," Mr. Gagliardi said. "It will certainly not be a toll bridge."

8,930 British Troops Quit Port Said

PORT SAID, Egypt (Reuters)—Leut.-Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, British commander in Egypt, said today 8,930 British troops had left Port Said by Thursday night and another 2,000 will leave Saturday.

He disclosed that a total of 20,007 British troops had landed in Egypt when Britain and France intervened in the Israeli attack on Egypt.

Motorman Killed, 40 Hurt In Train Fire

RED FEATHER OVER TOP FIRST TIME IN HISTORY

Greater Victoria Community Chest passed its $220,000 goal with a $300 safety margin Thursday.

It was the first time in its 20-year history that the united appeal has attained its goal.

Community Chest campaign chairman Harry Gladwell credited payroll deduction gifts and a new public acceptance of the need for the victory.

Chest president R. B. Wilson expressed thanks to the 1,600 volunteers who assisted in the campaign, especially veteran organizers Courtney Haddock and R. M. "Dinty" Moore.

A total of about $1,380 in pledges is still expected to be turned in to the 1956 drive.

The first chest drive in 1937 raised $86,191. In 1949 the chest almost made its $140,000 objective, the closest to success of any year in the past.

Eden Out as PM 'Within Weeks' Experts Predict

By ADRIAN BALL

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden's prospects of remaining prime minister remained the big subject of speculation in public and private today after 15 Conservative Members of Parliament revolted and refused to back a government confidence vote in the House of Commons.

The refusal of the die-hard "Suez group," who bitterly opposed the decision to withdraw British and French troops from Egypt, to support the government Thursday night led many politicians and newspapers to report a big behind-the-scenes move to topple Eden without bringing down the government.

The government won two votes after a two-day debate on its Middle Eastern policy. First it defeated by 327 to 260—a majority of 67—a Labor censure motion.

Then it went on to win the confidence vote 312 to 260—a majority of 52.

The abstention of the 15 Tories was the most serious defection from party ranks since the Neville Chamberlain government fell early in the Second World War.

Suez Rebels Take Solid Stand

The "Suez rebels" have not hidden their belief that Eden, now in Jamaica on a three-weeks rest, should be replaced by a new leader not identified with the Egyptian withdrawal.

Some political observers say party leaders are confident of the future and pleased with the small number of Conservatives who abstained.

Eden will return from Jamaica next Friday.

The government's determination to stay in office despite the dissensions within the party and the Labor opposition's calls to "resign" was made plain by senior ministers during Thursday's debate.

R. A. Butler, lord privy seal, who has been acting as chairman of the cabinet during Eden's absence, declared: "This government has decided against Continued on Page 2

U.S. Borrows Billion For Aid to U.K.?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. treasury today announced a new borrowing of $1,000,000,000 to be used in part to defray the cost of possible financial aid to Britain.

Britain, confronted with depletion of the gold and dollar reserves by the Suez crisis, has asked for waiver of an $82,000,000 interest payment due the United States Dec. 31. Britain also has asked Canada to waive its interest payment of $22,000,000. Britain also plans to draw on the International Monetary Fund for a large sum.

The British actions will mean a loss to the U.S. treasury of cash.

The treasury accordingly announced it will invite offers for approximately $1,000,000,000 of 95-day treasury bills Monday.

The new borrowing will bring the national debt close to the $278,000,000,000 ceiling imposed by Congress.

A figure of $561,000,000 has been mentioned for the IMF. This would be in the form of a credit in U.S. dollars on which the British could draw as needed to pay for Western Hemisphere petroleum and meet other foreign exchange obligations.

Club members will gift wrap toys and invite Santa Claus and children selected by local welfare agencies to the arena. A trap door in the foot of the monster stocking will be opened releasing an avalanche of toys.

Makers of the yule sock are Don Mac Agencies, agents for Fair Isle Knitting Machines, 707 Johnson, who have donated 2,800 balls of wool worth $1,500. Gifts may be left at Fair Isle or taken to the bingo night.

Olympics' Dove of Peace Tattered and Bloodied

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer MELBOURNE (UP)—The Olympics are supposed to promote international friendliness but the dove of peace is fluttering nervously over the games today with scorched and tattered wings.

The British are complaining that their Australian cousins haven't been friendly enough.

MRS. MARY KEIL

... her stocking will weigh a quarter-ton.

WHY KNIT? WHY NOT?

Nobody's Darnin' This Santa Sock

Like Texas, Victoria is gaining a reputation for producing "the biggest."

Now under construction is the biggest Christmas stocking in the world—a gargantuan size 235—50 feet long and 25 feet in circumference.

A man, in order to wear the woolly whale of a sock, would have to be about 30 feet taller than the world's tallest totem in Beacon Hill Park.

The foot alone measures eight feet in diameter and is 20 feet from toe to heel.

Sponsored by Victoria Kinsmen Club, who will fill the red, green and white wool stocking with toys for underprivileged children, it will be hung from the ceiling at Memorial Arena Dec. 17, night of the club's giant bingo.

DONATIONS ASKED

To help fill the stocking with Christmas gifts, citizens are asked to donate serviceable toys to be distributed to needy children the morning after the bingo.

Rain Due Saturday Afternoon

Victoria and most of Vancouver Island will be hit by a blizzard tonight, the second this week.

The gloomy news from the Victoria weather office is based on a storm building up in the Eastern Pacific which appears headed down coast.

Up to five inches of snow are expected to fall overnight, accompanied by winds building up from 15 miles an hour to 30 and 40 miles an hour.

The storm likely will reach its peak around midnight.

TEMPO TO INCREASE

If the Pacific storm follows its expected course, snow will start to fall in flurries late this afternoon and early this evening, gradually increasing in intensity.

Temperatures will rise to about 28 above.

The only bright spot in the weather forecast indicates a continued rise in temperature to the freezing point Saturday, with the snow turning to rain Saturday afternoon.

Gale warnings have been posted for the Queen Charlotte area and northern Vancouver Island waters as of this afternoon, and will go into effect in Juan de Fuca Strait and Georgia Strait early this evening.

BOATS SCAMPER

All towboats and other small craft are scurrying for shelter. Overnight low at Gonzales weather office was 22, and at Patricia Bay Airport a low of 15 was recorded.

In addition to the Pacific storm, an imbalance of pressures between the coast and the interior of B.C. is adding to Vancouver Island's wintry picture. Pressures in the interior are rising, those along the coast falling, causing a flow of air from east to west.

As the air in the interior is cold, this will keep temperatures here low as well as create strong winds.

CREWS STANDING BY

City engineer J. C. Garnett said at noon his department has men and trucks standing by for snow and ice clearance tonight. "Trucks are loaded with salt and six other trucks are fitted with scrapers."

He said road clearing was Continued on Page 2

Ottawa, B.C. Can't Agree

OTTAWA (BUP)—The B.C. government has decided that the Second Narrows bridge in the Vancouver area will not be part of the Trans-Canada Highway within provinces, or

2. Assume 50 per cent of the total cost of what is expected to be a four-lane bridge.

The federal authorities told B.C. that neither was possible under the Federal-Provincial Trans-Canada Highway agreements. The provincial administration, it was said here, then decided to go ahead on its own with the bridge and operate it as a toll bridge.

"That decision was its own choice," a federal government spokesman said.

Questioned in Vancouver by the Times today, Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said B.C. will sign a federal-provincial agreement with Ottawa before the deadline next Sunday.

"We are aiming to get the best possible deal we can for B.C.," Mr. Gagliardi said.

The minister declined comment on the report from Ottawa about Second Narrows Bridge.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

God of peace, grant unto all Thy peoples the grace to live together with understanding hearts. Break down the barriers between nations. Grant peace in our time, and in years to come; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Some o' th' critics cuttin' Eden down t' size must be indulgin' in wishful shrinkin'.

They seem t' be wagin' a cold war up there on Gonzales Hill.

FEW MISHAPS
Cautious drivers continued to keep up a good record during safety week despite road conditions, but two minor accidents were recorded Thursday.

Allan Poole, 13, of 2848 Prior, received cuts and bruises when his sleigh collided with a car at Topaz and Prior. Driver of the car was Rodney Birgenham, 2974 Prior.

Sophie L. Sills, 1250 Newport, was discharged from Royal Jubilee Hospital after treatment for a leg injury received when her car collided in the snow at Oak Bay and Rockland with a car driven by Lyle M. Johnston, 1262 Beach.

At Vancouver the mercury dropped to 15 overnight as British Columbia's lower mainland remained in the grip of a cold spell. Roads were icy in patches from heavy snow falls earlier this week, though the streets of Vancouver were bare. Fraser Valley schools closed Tuesday because of snow, reopened Thursday. High was 26.

A Restless Comfort

SINCE the boss of our house bought the oil furnace I've been having bad dreams.

Maybe they're due to the unaccustomed warmth of the bedroom these winter nights.

In December I'm used to having my nose, the only part protruding from the blankets, turn dead white in the night. On odd occasions in other years I've risen with the belief that I should pack snow around it before applying hot water and soap to my face.

Stott

The way it is in our house since the advent of the oil furnace, I may as well be sleeping in Honolulu.

Perhaps when I become oriented to this luxury my nightmares will cease. Perhaps. But they're frighteningly vivid now.

BURNING DOLLARS

One, which I trace to a Zoroastrian concept associated with the fire-and-brimstone school of religion, has me in the familiar pose of a posthumous stoker forking fuel into the insatiable maw of a roaring furnace. I guess we all have these psychic glimpses of the hereafter.

Only in my particular dream, it's dollar bills. I'm forking into the furnace—my dollar bills. I wake up screaming.

In another slumber fantasy I have become immensely wealthy. (What else are dreams made for?) Among my possessions is the world's most productive oil well. During the nightmare, disaster strikes. The well bursts aflame and my riches go up in smoke. I awake from this with the conditioned fortitude of a man who has once been Croesus and accepts poverty with the grace and refinement some people attribute to the wealthy.

Disturbed thus in my rest, I wonder how long the human body can carry on without the blessed gift of sleep, the innocent sleep. And I think a little wistfully of the happiness I knew as a poor boy.

Once I enjoyed the bracing, healthy environment of a freezing bedroom in winter and loved, with Rupert Brooke, the rough male kiss of blankets. Those were more heroic days, when one could drink delight of snow-battle with his peers high on the ringing plains of windy Gonzales Hill.

Coming home, a boy could find warmth and affection in the kitchen, thaw his mittens and his toes about the stove and appreciate the Spartan joy of sleeping upstairs where the breath made mist in the air.

But we have passed the age of kitchen living—more's the pity and expense.

They don't build kitchens for existence any more. They're just production units, adequate for subsistence of the physical but not the spiritual.

I can remember the old kitchen sofa, raised at the head to receive its freight of coats, sweaters, mittens and toques, resting on feet that left space for boots and slippers underneath. A boy could stretch out on the sofa, once he'd shifted the old newspapers and the cat, and fall asleep in the drowsy warmth.

I can remember Grandma's rocker, close to the stove but out of the line of traffic. I can recall the kitchen chair with arms, where father sat to read his paper, cut up his plug tobacco at the kitchen table, or hold court when anyone dropped in.

At the table, too, were youngsters doing their home-work, or probably, at this season, painting water-color pictures of holly and plum-puddings for Christmas cards.

The mother and mainstay of the household went serenely about her business, finishing off a late chore or sitting for the rest she gained from darning a basketful of socks.

HEART OF THE FAMILY

The kitchen held the heart of the family and in it was bred the simple co-operation which gave the old family its harmony and oneness. It induced, probably enforced, a sharing of experiences. It necessitated high consideration—not too much noise because the children are studying and father's reading. It established a kindly but effective discipline. Parents knew what their youngsters were doing because the youngsters were doing it right under their eyes.

It's gone now—gone with the Sunlight soap box full of firewood and the mica window in the stove door, the couch and the rocker, the merry boiling of the kettle, the simple story-telling. We have progressed beyond it.

Now we live more graciously. After dinner it's up to your rooms, kids, and study. Don't play your own radios too loud. We saunter into the warmth of the livingroom and pick up a book.

Only the dog stays in the kitchen, and not for long. It's lonely for her, too, so she nuzzles open the door and joins us. It's as if she were so much more comfortable since we got the oil furnace—if only I could sleep at night without those bad dreams.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Should Doctors Tell the Truth

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A man tells me his father has a certain incurable disease, and his kind doctor has kept up his hope by telling him that he is going to get well. The son is now much distressed because his father read a column of mine in which I said there is no known cure for the disease. I am very sorry about this, and I know that often, by my frankness in this column, I must discourage people, but I wish they would keep in mind the other side of the problem.

Dr. Alvarez

Here comes a letter from a poor old farmer who says that with much illness in his family he used up almost all his savings. In the last year what money he had left went to doctors who treated him for the residue of a stroke for which I once said there is little that can be done. The farmer says now, "How I wish I could have seen your column earlier so that I would not have wasted all my money. Now, explain to me why the doctors did not tell me in simple English that they just could not open up my skull and make the part of my brain that was destroyed by the stroke? To face that truth might have been a bit of a shock to me, but it would have been kinder to tell me that than to take all of my money for absolutely nothing."

My answer is that his doctors might have been glad to tell him that they doubted if they could help him, but they feared, with good reason, that if they had refused to examine or treat him, he would have left their office thinking that they were either ignorant or lazy, or not interested in helping him, or even hostile to him.

HARD TO ADMIT

Many of us doctors find it hard to admit even to ourselves that there are many diseases that we cannot cure and so we keep on trying. I know that sometimes, when in a medical journal I have said that a certain disease was not curable by medicine, I have received a number of chiding letters from my physician friends, telling me that this was no way to talk.

Last week the mother of an epileptic lad took me to task because I said the disease is commonly inherited. That statement, of course, is nothing new; the fact has been well known since the dawn of civilization, 6,000 years ago. What angers this mother is that her son says now that he does not want ever to have children. He says he will never bring into this world a person who might have to suffer as terribly as he is now suffering. His mother thinks it is my duty to lie to all epileptics and to keep telling them that the risk of their having an epileptic child is so slight as to be not worth worrying about. With Dr. O. P. Kimball's figures here before me, showing that in his large group one in three of the children born to epileptics had serious trouble, I cannot blithely say, "There is almost no danger."

Well, then, say some of my epileptic correspondents and their relatives, "Just say nothing and keep your mouth shut. Don't scare us or our children. We don't want to hear a word about it." But in the same mail I get a dozen letters from epileptics saying something like this: "Blessings on you for having given me the information I much desired in regard to my disease. For years I have greatly wanted to know the facts." A woman writes, "I have epilepsy running through my family, and now that I have married I so want to know if I am carrying the tendency. How can I find out? Can I give the disease to one or more of the children I may have? Another woman—a mother with an epileptic brother—writes, "I so wish I knew if any one of my four boys is carrying the disease latent, so that some day it could show up in him, and still later show up in his children. Can I find this out, and if so, where and how?"

SOMETIMES ENCOURAGING

Often I can somewhat relieve the mind of such a mother by having her get electroencephalograms made of herself, her husband and her children. Electroencephalograms are records of the tiny electric currents that are constantly being formed in the brain. In nine out of ten normal persons the record shows regular waves, while in six out of ten epileptics and carrier of epilepsy the records show typical irregularities—the so-called dysrhythmias, perhaps with "spikes" and "seizure activity." It is always encouraging to find that the son (or daughter) of an epileptic had a normal record. It is very encouraging, also, if, as a small child, the person had no fever convulsions, no temper tantrums, no hostilities, and no terrible nightmares, and if today he is pleasant, even-tempered, well-adjusted, and easy to get along with.

SYNOPSIS—Once again over-night temperatures dropped to quite a low. Winds east 15 near records at several points over the mainland and southeast throughout the province. Ab-15 today but southeast 20 Saturday. Botsford with a low of 7 degrees and high in the Gulf. Low tonight was coldest spot on the coast and high Saturday at Vancouver and equalled its previous all-time December record. Quesnel and Kimberley were coldest in the province with lows of 24 degrees below zero.

However, a little cloud spread to many coastal and a few interior sections and prevented too great a drop in temperature.

Now a storm is developing in the Gulf of Alaska and it appears that this disturbance will moderate the cold spell considerably. Increasing cloud and snow will spread to most coastal regions during the day. A little thin cloud and a little more stirring of the air will prevent such low temperatures in the western interior as well.

MacMillan Charges Big Loggers 'Flying in Face' of Public Opinion

H. R. MacMillan, eminent forester and British Columbia timber magnate, Thursday night issued a plea on behalf of the small logger.

He charged big forest industrial companies were "flying in the face" of public opinion and attempting to grab off the public forests "that the small operators can see they will soon need."

The chairman of the board of MacMillan and Borden was addressing the annual dinner of the Western Forestry Conference in the Empress Hotel.

Political parties in B.C. would react strongly if small operators continually complain that large operators are obscuring the present or future of the small, he warned.

Smaller operators and the public are hardening in their opinion that the large companies are predominantly owned outside B.C., he continued.

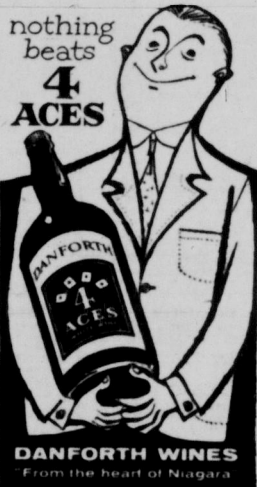

"It is wise to remember that seven or eight large forest industry companies would quickly be swamped in political importance by thousands of small logging and mill operators with their families, employees, friends and neighbors in the small villages and settlements they support."

The long view must be taken for political developments, he said.

"When spending a lifetime creating property, why not devote equal thought to creating good neighbors for that property so that the electorate will not be disposed to vote to take their revenge at the polls?"

This was the substance of Mr. MacMillan's stand also before the recently-ended Sloan Royal Commission into all aspects of B.C. forests.

That commission was established, he said, as public opinion was rising against the present system of forest management licenses; the belief too much area was going to the large companies and that it was "a give-away."

ZEBULON, Ga. (AP)—An aged white man shot a young Negro mother of six children to death with a shotgun after she "sassed" him late Wednesday, Sheriff J. A. Riggins reported. Riggins said B. T. Dukes, 71, a retired farmer, was jailed on a murder charge following the shooting of Maybelle Mahone, 30.

B.C. Electric Cuts Domestic Gas Rates

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. Electric Co. officials said Thursday they have cut rates to consumers still using domestic gas to the level of natural gas prices because the natural gas conversion program is running a month behind schedule.

They said the reduction, approved Wednesday by the Public Utilities Commission, will save 25,000 customers $100,000 between now and Jan. 16.

The 25 to 35 per cent saving will apply on all gas consumed in Greater Vancouver on or after last Monday.

Uranium Shares

Hold Top Interest

Uranium shares drew more-than-usual interest on Toronto exchange today but the rest of the list was quiet. The rally which had lasted for a week almost faded out.

After a period of irregularity the New York market moved generally higher in afternoon trading. Leading issues moved ahead fractions to around a point but there were still a fair number of losers.

Consolidated Denison were ahead about a point among higher-priced uranium issues while Pronto showed a 30-cent rise and Northspan 25 cents.

Industrial price changes ranged to two points among pivotal issues but most changes were fractional. Papers, refining oils and steels had a few more gains than losses.

Senior base metals were firm but gains were confined to fractions. Western oils moved in a narrow range.

AT NEW YORK International Nickel and Dome Mines advanced but most other Canadian issues declined. Canadian Pacific, McIntyre, Walker-Goodman and Distillers-Seagrams were lower.

AT MONTREAL industrial stocks went narrowly and irregularly higher in quiet afternoon trading. Most price movements were fractional.

AT TORONTO gains were widespread. Oil shares were active and firm led by British Petroleum, Shell and Ultramar. Industrials made a satisfactory showing.

Glit-edged securities returned to favor and showed gains up to 3-1/2.

AT VANCOUVER mines were fairly active with prices slightly higher. National Exploration sold 18,100 shares between 47 and 50, Beaver Lodge sold 6,500 with a high of 37.

Ford's Windsor Plant Plans Brief Layoffs

TORONTO (CP)—Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada, said Thursday the company's production plant at Windsor will close down for three days after Christmas so the Oakville assembly plant can use a surplus of stock.

He also said in a statement a major program of changes in the Windsor engine plant, starting in the new year, will involve a series of layoffs in various plant departments.

The Oakville plant had not been able to maintain assembly schedules, the statement said.

Warm Welcome Brings Happy Smiles to Weary Hungarian Faces

By TONY DICKASON

They walked off the CPR boat from Vancouver somberly, a little apart from the other passengers, grouped as if for protection.

Hungary is no longer a home for them, it's a horror. The government-assisted immigrants, 15 men and two women, have literally entered a new world, and were yet too confused to fully realize what has happened.

They moved in single file through the immigration wicket and when they saw press photographers and TV cameras, lined up dutifully, almost without being asked.

On hand for the greeting in the chilly depths of the wharf rampway were Mayor Percy Scurrell, Ald. Austin Curtis and Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson. Junior Chamber of Commerce president Vic Fuggle also was on hand.

Official welcome for the government Health Minister

Eric, Martin arrived on time, but had trouble getting past the small surrounding crowd of dignitaries and interested observers until noticed by the mayor, who waved him through.

Mr. Scurrell was the first to shake a refugee hand, then Mr. Martin.

Speaking extemporaneously while the new arrivals stood almost at attention with little change of expression, the health minister passed greetings.

It was a simple, forthright personal address; no frills. Said he: "On behalf of the Province of British Columbia, I welcome you. It is our happy thought you will find in this land peace, contentment and security. You will find we have here many opportunities, and the people will give you much assistance so you can again re-establish yourselves."

"As time goes on you will find a very full measure of political freedom, and that you may indulge in one of the great activities of this province—criticism of the government when that is deserved.

"Success and good luck."

When the interpreter repeated what Mr. Martin said—bit by bit as he went along so to be easily understood—smiles started to appear on weary faces.

Through the interpreter, group spokesman Szabo Lasos replied, also slowly:

"We are very grateful for the reception you have been kind enough to give us. We will take every chance to become good citizens. You can count on us in every possible way to do our utmost to learn the habits and laws of this new country."

The welcome at the wharf took only about 10 minutes before the party was whisked away by immigration officials to the warmth of the federal government building.

It was pathetic to see the few possessions carried—a faded shopping bag; a tiny hamper. Most of the men had no hats; one wore a beret, soiled, but at a jaunty angle.

These were the few simple items they were able to save in their freedom flight from their Communist-dominated homeland.

At the docksides was Father John Planeta, priest in charge of Roman Catholic Church at Lake Hill. He said 11 families in his parish had offered the Hungarians shelter.

"We have also collected two carloads of clothing and food from Lake Hill families. The people of Lake Hill have opened their hearts to these unfortunate people."

Father Planeta himself is a refugee. He fled from Poland ahead of the Nazis in 1939 and came to Canada in 1950.

"I know what it is to feel homeless," he said, "but in Canada no one is homeless for long. Canada is always a home away from home."

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Writ by hand by Our Very Own Correspondents)
Editor's note: Our correspondents were queried as follows: "Please send brief analysis municipal election picture your area."

LUNCHVILLE, V.I.—A determined effort to get out a large vote for the municipal elections this year is going to be made. In fact, a meeting was held just yesterday down to Lem's pool hall to form a non-partisan get-out-the-vote association.

The meeting was well attended but failed to form a non-partisan association because everybody began taking sides. However, the meeting was not entirely unsuccessful, as your correspondent won the door prize, a year's supply of cue chalk.

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—What with Christmas coming and snow and frozen pipes and all very little has been done so far about the municipal elections.

Up to date, very few candidates have come forward though several have gone backward. But this is subject to change. However, this situation may remain much the same as it is because Wobble Hill has not as yet had a municipal government or any municipal officials and we have always found it very difficult to hold municipal elections under these circumstances.

However there is likely to be a very spirited contest for queen of the Yuletide Box Social and Home Cooking sale.

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—Your correspondent has made a careful survey of all the registered voters in Wallopem Beach, and regrets to report that none of the registered voters are going to vote this year.

This is due, in part, to public apathy and lack of a really hot election issue, but possibly an even more important reason is there are no municipal elections slated for this year, this being the off-year, like.

GOON CENTRE, V.I.—There is indeed a great deal of interest in the elections in this bustling, progressive community.

Voters are examining with interest the progressive, forward-looking, intelligent administration given during the past year under the capable guidance of Mayor Abner Goon.

The Mayor, assisted by the advice and council of his active, community-minded wife has done everything possible to make Goon Centre what it is today, and all intelligent voters have agreed to vote for him again.

The Mayor took care of all the other voters by seeing that their names were removed from the voters' list. (The above despatch is from our Goon Centre correspondent, Mrs. Abner Goon.)

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

The Ex-Service Women's Branch of the Canadian Legion will hold a rummage sale on Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Britannia Legion auditorium. The sale will include new and used clothing, jewelry, books, puzzles, toys, miscellaneous articles and a home cooking stall. The proceeds are to be used for Christmas hampers for veterans, widows and pensioners.

A public meeting scheduled for Sunday has been canceled by the Victoria Theosophical Society.

The Esquimalt Golden Age Club will meet in the Community Hall Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Persons unable to call for tickets to Victoria Kinsmen Club's giant bingo, Dec. 17, may make reservations for Memorial Arena seats by calling the ticket desk at Eaton's.

To date, 3,900 tickets out of 7,300 have been sold. The club's mystery guest, to be identified at the bingo game, has been selected and will come from Europe at the expense of Kinsmen.

Art Hopping of Vancouver has won the B.C. Centennial poster competition, the centennial committee announced here today. He will receive $400 for his poster design. Two other Vancouver artists, Herbert Gilbert and George E. Crawford, will receive $100 awards for placing second and third.

Old Age Pensioners' Branch 5, will be guests of the Plaza Theatre next Thursday at 1 p.m. Members wishing to attend a Christmas dinner in St. John's Hall, Dec. 19, should leave their names with J. C. Williams, 4-1240, or R. H. Freppch, 2-0148.

Premier Bennett flew to Calgary today to address a meeting of the Canadian Petroleum Association. He will return to Victoria Monday.

Due to weather conditions the James Bay Golden Age Club whist drive, scheduled for tonight, has been cancelled.

Also cancelled tonight is a Christmas party planned by the Royal Society of St. George and the Victoria branch, Dickens Fellowship.

HUNGARIAN SHOWS DELIGHT

Babies Are Babies -- In Any Language

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

When a man cannot express himself in words he sometimes looks around for something tangible that will convey his feelings.

So it was with slim, blue-eyed Imre Horvat, 25-year-old Hungarian refugee, when he arrived in Victoria Thursday and was taken into the bright new home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kissinger at 3941 Cumberland.

Imre speaks no English as yet—so could not express his delight. But when he saw five-month-old Sidne Kissinger kicking her legs on the living room rug, he knew what to do. He picked up the chubby bundle and exclaimed delightedly in Hungarian as he rocked her to and fro...

Motor Mechanic

The conventional ice was broken so far as Mr. and Mrs. Kissinger were concerned—and, soon after, Imre was sitting down to a typical Canadian dinner. Host and hostess kept up a pleasant chatter, while Imre talked with the baby in her own particular language.

Imre was a motor mechanic in Budapest before the Russian vengeance, and he is hoping someone in Victoria will be able to make use of his experience.

Through an interpreter, he spoke of his delight in coming to a country where people say more or less what they like.

So Outspoken

"Everyone is so outspoken," he smiled. "They do not care who listens. In Budapest we look over the shoulder before we say anything. It is so dangerous."

Other members of the party also were heartened by assurances of political freedom in British Columbia. "We are so lucky," said auto mechanic Karl Aradi. "People here are so outspoken. In Vancouver a man said the city council was 'no good.' I thought he would be arrested, but no one took any notice. Everyone is so free."

Persecuted

An engaged couple—Joseph Nagy and Theresa Toth—were among the refugees who came to Victoria at the invitation of a local family. "We became engaged in Vienna," tall, blue-eyed Joseph said. "We had much in common. Both our families had been persecuted. We wanted to find a new life in Canada. We decided we would seek that new life in Canada."

The words of these refugees, translated into English, sounded stilted and formal. But the truth showed in them.

Cars for Rich

"So many people have cars—in Hungary—only the rich can afford them," said 27-year-old Szilard Koltar, a lathe operator who plays the violin in his leisure moments.

"How much money do you have to earn to own a car?" On being told that Canadians earning $300 a month own cars, he replied that he and most of his friends had never earned the equivalent of more than $100 a month.

Istvan Kormendy, 29-year-old motor mechanic, was welcomed to Victoria by Emil Irving Dery, an engineer in the B.C. Forest Service.

Mr. Dery left Hungary in 1949 ahead of the Communists and fled into Switzerland. In 1952, with his wife and son, he came to Canada and two years ago settled in Victoria.

"Life here is so different," Mr. Dery said. "It will take quite a while for our new friends to become adjusted. But I know they will adapt themselves to Canada as I did and as many others have done."

Land of Islands

Imra Szabo, 31-year-old electrical fitter, said the trip from Vancouver to Victoria was the most magnificent he could remember.

"All those little islands along the way—I have never seen anything like them. British Columbia is a land of islands. It is all so grand."

Dark, good-looking John Piro, who has cooked goulash in some of the best restaurants in Budapest, looked across the inner harbor to the stately, ivy-clad Empress and was interpreted as saying:

"Everything is so quiet. I like this quiet."

Hungarian Refugee Tells Of Turncoats in Budapest

By AB KENT

Russian soldiers joined rebels in Budapest to turn arms against Soviet domination during October's bloody uprising, a Hungarian refugee said here Thursday.

The turncoats, he said, were some members of the Red army garrison in the Hungarian capital, who, through living among the citizens came to sympathize with them.

Alexander Hogye, 27, a machinegun-wielding street fighter five weeks ago, arrived with the first party of refugees to seek new lives in Victoria.

Dark, good-looking Hogye showed the marks of strain and conflict in somewhat prematurely-aged features, but came out of the fighting without wounds.

He had been a party to the revolution from the first day—Oct. 23—when university students and other young men and women began a peaceful demonstration of their longing to be free.

His story was pieced together through three interpreters, one a soldier in the Canadian army who fled from Hungary himself and met refugees at the dock Thursday in hopes of learning of his family, now known to have reached Vienna in safety.

Hogye did not talk readily about the uprising.

CHAUFFEUR

He was anxious to know whether he would be able to get a licence allowing him to drive a truck here. In Budapest he had been a chauffeur.

Hogye, a bachelor ("I have no dependents so it is all right to use my name"), said he lived in Akafca Street, a sector where some of the big battles with Red soldiers and AVH (Soviet secret police) took place.

Hogye began his story hesitantly. "We were always afraid of the Russians, but we have such a bad feeling about the uprising we would rather forget it."

An interpreter explained: "This is not like Hungary. The people in Canada want to know of the things which happened." She turned to the reporter. "In Hungary they are always afraid to say something."

He went on: "It started peacefully by the young students, the boys and girls demonstrating on the streets with Hungarian flags. They sang the national hymn. I was among them."

"We went to one of the Hungarian heroes' monuments—Petofi Sandor, the great hero of the revolution against Russia in 1848."

SHOT AT CROWD

"Some of the students and crowds were around a radio station. There were AVH guards around it and they began shooting at the crowd."

"We went to a factory where they made guns for the Russians and we got weapons from the warehouse. I had a machine gun."

"We went back to the radio station and gave guns to the crowd. This was the first street fight with the Russians. The Hungarians took over the radio station for 10 minutes, but when the Russian armored cars got there we were driven back."

STREET FIGHTERS

"Most of the people hid their guns under their coats and the crowd broke up a little. We became street fighters."

"We went to the Hungarian National Theatre and destroyed two Russian armored cars. Then we went to the garrisons and there was a big fight there. The people made surprise

'CURSE THEM' MEANS THANKS

The Hungarian language is one of the most difficult languages to translate, according to Andrew Dery of Victoria, who helped as an interpreter when the Hungarian refugees arrived in Victoria Thursday. "It's a descriptive language," he said, after being chided by a newspaperman for taking so long to translate Hungarian into English. He warned that if you hear a Hungarian saying something like "curse on them," he is not angry or unfriendly. "The words 'curse em' in Hungarian mean 'thank you,' he said.

CONFERENCE RESOLUTION

Foresters Welcome Hungarian Cohorts

Highlight of resolutions Pine and Cellulose Ltd., Vancouver, and Otis D. Hallin, vice-president, timber, Crown-Zellerbach Association in convention at the Empress Hotel was one welcoming the Hungarian Forestry School soon to arrive in British Columbia as refugees. The school includes 338 students and faculty members. "The association knows they will find in Canada a sympathetic reception and the freedom and opportunity they have been denied by their oppressors," the resolution read.

OTTAWA LAUDED

The 500-member association, ending its three-day convention, commended the Canadian government and others for the invitation sent and "feels that the Powell River Company has acted in our North American tradition in making it possible for the young men and teachers to find a place for continuing their studies."

It was also resolved that the association urge both Canadian and United States weather bureau program expansions to satisfy fire-control needs. This would be done through stepped-up consultations with Western Forest Protection Associations and foresters.

Newly-named association president is George C. Flanagan, of the Elk Lumber Company, Medford, Ore., succeeding John E. Liersch, Powell River Company Ltd., Vancouver, who was named to the executive committee and a trustee for B.C.

Other B.C. trustees named were Ross Douglas, Alaska

SHOPPING GUIDE

Wintertime Tables Glow
With Many-Hued Blooms

By PENNY SAVER

Vegetable stands were off the sidewalks into the shelter of stores when I went shopping this morning. Yes, even though the streets are blanketed and walking is a bit difficult, shopping for weekend foodstuffs is necessary. Before I gathered prices of the fresh produce, I noticed in the window masses of flowers that can brighten your rooms, and make it springtime even in the midst of a blizzard. White beehive chrysanthemums are 45 cents a bunch, and beehive mums are the same price. Mammoth mums in white or a golden yellow tinged with bronze are three and four for $1 and bouquets of button mums in a variety of shades cost from 69 to 75 cents. There are daisies and carnations, also, to make your rooms cheery.

On the vegetable stands, I saw quart of cranberry juice cocktail. Appropriate for Christmas! With the bottle, which costs 79 cents, is a recipe folder with suggestions for cranberry sherbet, salad, punch or pies. Fresh cranberries in one-pound boxes are 35 cents and tins of cranberry sauce are two for 49 cents.

All who like different and tasty cheese will appreciate the attractive packages of Swiss cheese that I saw in a downtown store. The top of the angled box is of clear plastic, so that you can see the bright wrappings on each of the 18 wedges of cheese. This package would make a novel Christmas present for someone on your list. It costs $1.45.

THE BETTER HALF

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Question about place settings: Would you please discuss the proper place for the fork when no knife is needed. My mother taught me to place the fork on the right if no knife is needed, but I seem to be the only one who does this. The other night there were eight of us at my house for a dessert bridge party. I had my tables set with silver, napkins, centerpieces and coffee cups. The forks and spoons were at the right. A friend, thinking I had failed to place them properly, carefully put all the forks on the left.

Louise Davis answers: Your mother was correct in teaching you that both fork and spoon are placed at the right when there is no need for a knife. The reasoning is logical, for at no time (for a right-handed person) is the fork held in the left hand—when it is alone. Therefore, it is simpler and less awkward to pick up the fork with the right hand. Your guest had no right to make the change, even had you actually placed the silver incorrectly. She was twice wrong. To be sure, she was trying to save face for you in her own peculiar and thoughtless way (thinking she was right), but she overstepped. Friends and acquaintances don't correct others who make social errors. Why then should they take liberties by pointing out other trivial mistakes which in your case was no mistake?

More Color and Durability
Leather Fashions Change;

Never has there been a season when leather garments have been more lovely in style, color, and type. Designers seem to have captured the method of handling leather like they handle fabric. Smooth-grained leather garments will be made of kidskin, cabretta, capeskin, and ranch hide. The pearlized and metalized finishes give leather new eye-appeal. Suede continues in popularity because it handles and drapes to advantage. The popular tan shades, blond, beige, honey, taffy, champagne, and coffee, rank first with black, running a close second. Lacquer red, turt green, forest green, blue, and a warm brown rank high on the color card.

This year there is a strong trend to the full length coat. Three-tier sectioning of the long leather coats offers a new look. Fullness in the full-length coat spells formality. But classic designs, such as the "little boy" coat with its belted back, patch pockets, welt seams, and a high collar, are still in vogue. The old-fashioned trenchcoat version will hold their own. Leather garments are high-styled with mink accents on plain or pearlized coats. Raccoon, leopard, and fox trim seem to be more in keeping with leather fashions.

You'll find leather and fabric combined in both active and spectator sportswear. Tweed-like wool jersey is being combined with suede; tweed insert bandings with and coffee, rank first with black, running a close second. Lacquer red, turt green, forest green, blue, and a warm brown rank high on the color card.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Attractive Girl Must Be Attentive to Girls, Too

Q. "You might think it is funny enough to do and are, therefore, but it disturbs me. I am fifteen years old and I have a 37-inch bust, 24-inch waist and 37-inch hips. I am five feet five and one-half and weigh 122 pounds. My trouble is that the boys like me and the girls say I am too sexy and criticize me. I like boys but I want the girls to like me, too. I am sure it is not the way I act. Please give me some help."

A. You have a very attractive figure, one which few women have. This is especially true at your age. Also, you probably have a good personality. Perhaps your girl friends are a little jealous of you, maybe without realizing it themselves. I judge from your letter that your conduct is what it should be. However, it would be perfectly natural, unless you deliberately correct the tendency, to neglect the girls when having so much attention from the boys.

When in a group, see to it that you bring the other girls into the conversation and fun. Address some of your remarks to them and be rather attentive to them. I believe this will solve the problem. This will not scare the boys off—to the contrary.

Q. "My sister-in-law, who is a healthy person, stays in bed very late and doesn't get up to get her husband's breakfast or to see him off to work in the morning. She doesn't have any children and has her heavy weekly cleaning done by maid. Yet she is tired and exhausted. I can't understand why, after sleeping all night, she can't get up and face the day."

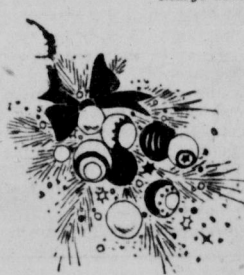

A. No! I do not think that women who go to work are living on their nerves. In fact, I think women are likely to develop "nerves" if they do not have

This idea of seeing one's husband off in the morning with a bright smile is sometimes a routine couples go through for years when both the man and woman would prefer otherwise. It is very frustrating for a woman to get up, put on an attractive negligee and some make-up and sit at the breakfast table and never say a word and not be spoken to.

Of course, there is always the chance that your sister-in-law may be plain indolent and lazy. But if your brother doesn't mind, why should you? If she is tired all day long she should consult a physician.

Practical Nurses Act; Cleaning Fluids Discussed at WI Meeting

Immediate implementation of the Practical Nurses Act assented to by the British Columbia government in April, 1951, is being urged in a letter sent by the Lake Hill Women's Institute to the provincial minister of health. Decision to send this letter was made at the annual meeting of the institute, held recently.

Another letter is being sent from the meeting to the Canadian Association of Consumers urging that the government be pressed to take more effective measures in protecting the consumer from products such as "cleaning fluids making indiscriminate use of the deadly carbon tetrachloride."

Mrs. A. Sutherland was re-elected president of the institute. Other members on the executive for the ensuing year are Mrs. W. S. Buchanan, secretary; Mrs. R. W. Mercer, treasurer (re-elected); Mrs. W. S. Webster and Mrs. F. Sharples. Reports of committee conven-ers indicated much activity and an increased membership. At the regular December meeting which preceded the annual meeting a sum of $10 was voted to Hungarian relief work.

Mrs. Chin was appointed convener of the Institute Christmas luncheon to be held on Dec. 17. It will be followed by presentation of a dramalogue.

Plan Hampers, Vote Money At Rotary-Ann Luncheon

Fifty-six members and friends of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Victoria Rotary Club (the Rotary-Ann) gathered on Thursday in the YWCA for a Christmas luncheon meeting. Tables were attractively decorated with chrysanthemums.

Seated at the head table with the president, Mrs. Clarice Hill, were her officers, Mrs. T. Bradbury, vice-president; Mrs. Shirley Dowell, publicity; Mrs. Mona Morrison, secretary; Mrs. Wride, treasurer, and Mrs. Rita Love, director.

At a short business meeting, following the luncheon, members voted $50 to the Cerebral Palsy Association, Victoria Branch, and $100 to Hungarian relief. Mrs. Laura Frame spoke on the basic principles and the permanent agencies of United Nations.

Plans were made to assemble Christmas hampers to be delivered to aged citizens at the holiday season and for a team to take part on a radio quiz program. This team will include Mrs. Phyllis Masters, Mrs. Gough, Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Nora Wallace.

Door prizes were drawn and the winners were Mrs. Esme Arnold, Mrs. Jean Burden, Mrs. Alex Green, Mrs. Helen Halford, Mrs. Rita Love, Mrs. Luney and Mrs. Winnie Sands.

Local Council

Meeting of the Local Council of Women will be held on Monday in the music room, Victoria Public Library at 2 p.m. The program committee will bring to its conclusion the study of "Women in Employment."

Expert Gives Novel Christmas Parcel Tips

Would you like to know more about the art of wrapping a gift so that packages reflect your skill and cleverness instead of being productions of lumpy paper and knotted string? Many would, judging from the lecture schedules of experts on the subject and the fact that the gift wrap industry has become an estimated $50,000,000-a-year business.

Not only at Christmas—all through the year you're called upon to dress up gifts for children, birthdays, anniversaries and weddings.

Choose Own Color Theme

Fluffy bows are made by gathering loops of ribbon and tying tightly in the centre. Some types of gift ribbon have instructions on the back of each cardboard roll.

If you're using a patterned paper, match the ribbon's shade to a color that's in the pattern, not to one that's in the background.

At Christmas, especially, it's thrifty—and just as effective—to pick a color scheme and stick to it. This permits you to buy paper and ribbon in the large economy rolls. And if the color scheme isn't strictly seasonal, you can use the leftovers for other occasions.

The trend, according to Miss Lillie, is toward two-tone wrappings in such combinations as navy green and emerald green, royal blue and light blue, gold and yellow.

Gold or silver wrapping papers also permit a wide variety of effects. For example, a silver-wrapped box can take a

So here are some professional pointers from Lucille Lillie, lecturer on gift wrapping and a field supervisor for one of the large gift wrap companies.

Miss Lillie bases her tips on the questions most frequently asked by feminine audiences in all parts of the country.

To wrap a neat package, says Miss Lillie, cut away excess paper. Allow enough in width of paper to overlap box two to four inches. Paper should extend over ends of box no more than three-fourths of the depth of box.

red poinsettia decoration at Christmas, or a fluted-decked pink or white bow if it's for a wedding gift.

A poinsettia is made of tapered lengths of ribbon, tied in the middle and taped to a thin wire which has been covered with green ribbon. A flower pot for the poinsettias can be made by cutting graduated lengths of ribbon and cellophane, then taping them together across the back.

Flitter or glitter from the dime store adds professional sparkle to many packages. Miss Lillie brushes clear nail polish over ribbon edges, then scatters flitter on the still-damp polish.

Another trick is to dip the sticky side of cellophane or gift wrap tapes in flitter and secure them in a design on the package with colored tape. Or you can cut diamond-shaped openings in the loops of bows, stick cellophane tape to the underside and dip in flitter to get a stunning effect.

Tie Trinkets to Parcels

Lucille also likes the use of trinkets tied on "special occasion" packages. For a child (especially if the gift itself is more practical than thrilling) lollipops, a toy whistle, balloon or tiny animal adds glamor to the package. Dangle doll shoes on the baby present, add a tiny auto to the traveler's gift, tie a couple of miniature birds or butterflies to the get-well gift.

Sometimes the shape of the box suggests a design; a square box with alphabet letters cut from paper or tape looks like a child's block; the rectangular box (holding a man's tie, perhaps) can be trimmed up with dots to resemble a domino.

And to wrap a cylindrical box neatly, try this suggestion: Put box end-to-end on wrong side of paper, trace edges with pencil. Draw another circle about two inches larger and cut on outer circle. Clip in points about six times around the circle and tape to box side.

Then circle the cylinder and hide the points with a band of paper cut to the exact height of the box.

Traditional or Modern—Christmas Is the Time for Tasteful Foods

Christmas is a time of traditions . . . and we would be the last to upset the scheme of things. So count us in for turkey and trimmings—and plum pudding too. But, just as decorating experts have been moving us into blues and pinks and turquoise, in our Christmas color scheme, we have ideas about blending the modern with the traditional in the food line.

If you stick strictly to tradition, then fit these recipes into holiday entertaining, other than the Christmas menu. The Cheese Soufflé Broccoli will be wonderful after the hanging of the greens ceremony . . . along with cold meats and potato chips. The Rosy-Cinnamon Pear Salad will do honors for you at a Christmas week luncheon, or make a buffet festive . . . and the French Chocolate Cream, every bit as rich as Plum Pudding, will do you proud at a Christmas time "dessert and coffee" do.

Do take your choice . . . feature these holiday food combinations on your Christmas menu, or add them in turn to this month's party line-ups. As for us, we'll take the traditional AND the modern all in one meal, thank you . . . and leave the battle of the bulge for a New Year's challenge! After all—

Christmas only comes once a year!

CHEESE SOUFFLE BROCCOLI

One large head broccoli or, 2 (10 ounce) packages frozen broccoli, 1 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1/2 cup broccoli stock, 1/2 cup evaporated milk, 1/2 cup grated Canadian cheddar cheese, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate (optional), 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, dash of cayenne, 2 eggs, separated, paprika.

Trim and wash broccoli. Separate into flowerets and cook about 8 minutes, or cook frozen broccoli in boiling salted water about 5 minutes. Arrange flowerets in a single layer in a buttered 8x8x2 inch baking dish. In top of double boiler melt butter and stir in flour. Add the reserved broccoli broth and evaporated milk and stir constantly until thickened. Add cheese, salt, pepper, monosodium glutamate, mustard and cayenne. Cool and taste sauce. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Then blend in 2 slightly beaten egg yolks. Fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Spread evenly over broccoli and dust with paprika. Bake in a hot oven (425°F) 20 minutes or until

Your frig will gleam for Christmas if you do that job of thoroughly cleaning it now.

Give Your Refrigerator Treatment It Deserves for Christmas Season

Before the holidays, it's your honor-bound duty to the turkey and his festive conferees to give the refrigerator a thorough top-to-bottom sprucing. That means a complete defrosting . . . an inventory of what foods you take out . . . elimination of anything that isn't 100 per cent fresh. For the actual cleaning, most refrigerator manufacturers advise baking soda. It won't scratch the delicate surface; it removes musty food odors by emulsifying greasy film that traps them; it prolongs the life of the gasket . . . the rubber insulating strip around the door; and it's completely safe to use since it's a pure food product.

Here's how to approach the job methodically. Wipe every inside inch of the refrigerator with a damp sponge sprinkled with dry baking soda. Use a little more soda and a little more rubbing power on sticky spill spots as well as the gasket. Rinse with a clean damp sponge.

Next, for approximately every quart of water needed to fill the sink, add three tablespoons of soda. This solution is for washing the ice trays, the vegetable storage bin, meat tray and shelves. Swish each around in the sink for a few minutes. The shelves may require a brush and an application of dry soda to loosen the dried-on food particles.

You've finished the job now, and the turkey can take up residence in a shiny fresh refrigerator.

For a delicious and interestingly different dessert try strudel stuffed with chopped cabbage, raisins and chopped nuts seasoned with cinnamon.

Marinate cooked large dry limas, sliced canned mushrooms, green pepper strips and thinly sliced radishes in a garlic flavored wine vinegar and olive oil dressing. An extra good make-ahead salad for a buffet supper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

MOCHA BALLS

One large (7 oz.) box vanilla wafers; 2 cups confectioners sugar; 1/2 cup finely chopped nutmeats; 2 tablespoons cocoa; 1/4 cup heavy cream; 1/4 cup double-strength, cold coffee. Crush vanilla wafers into fine crumbs (there should be 2 cups). Add sugar and mix well. Stir in nutmeats and cocoa. Add cream and coffee. Mix well and shape into balls about 1/2-inch in diameter. Roll some of the balls in additional confectioners sugar. Chill. (Do not bake). Makes about 4 dozen.

Bachelor Cook in National Contest Learned His Art in Logging Camp

TORONTO (CP)—Vincent Duffy, 40-year-old bachelor cook with the Canadian National Railways at Gaspe, Que., will compete with nine women in a national cooking contest sponsored by a Canadian packing company in Toronto next Tuesday.

Duffy's recipe for doughnuts was among the top 10 chosen from more than 100,000 recipes submitted.

Duffy says he has never attended a cooking class in his life. He learned to cook in a lumber camp near Alana, N.B.

U.S. Shuns World Hockey in Russia

BRUNSWICK, Me. (AP)—The U.S. State Department has turned down plans for United States amateur hockey players to compete in the world tournament in Russia next year because of Soviet actions in Hungary, team officials said today. Canada last month decided not to send a team. Officials of the U.S. Amateur Hockey Association team said the group will be permitted to go if the competition is changed to some other place in Europe. They said Sweden is being considered as a possible site.

General Strike Called in Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—A two-hour general strike was called throughout all Jordanian cities this afternoon in protest against the policy of Iraqi Premier Nuri Al Said toward Syria and Egypt and his reported detention of Iraqi political leaders.

Hungary Denies Deception Charge

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Hungary denied today that its foreign minister, Imre Horvath, tried to deceive UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and the General Assembly in negotiations on a visit from Hammarskjöld to Budapest.

The Hungarian delegation to the Assembly said this accusation, made by U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., was "absolutely unfounded."

Montreal Wants Budapest Opera

MONTREAL (CP)—Members of the Budapest Opera Company who have escaped to Vienna may be offered an engagement for next summer in Montreal, it was disclosed here today.

The Montreal Festivals Society said it is seeking to open negotiations with the artists through Canadian diplomatic officials in Vienna.

Strike Threat in Hungary

BUDAPEST (UP)—The leaders of Hungary's workers warned the government bluntly today that there will be "a general strike, bloodshed and a new national tragedy" if the current wave of arrests continues.

The warning came in a proclamation handed to puppet Premier Janos Kadar by the Central Workers' Council of Greater Budapest.

Reliable sources reported tonight that at least 17 persons were killed and 50 injured in Thursday's fighting between pro-government and nationalist supporters.

Big Three Parley Proposed by Dulles

PARIS (AP)—A foreign ministry spokesman said today Herve Alphand, French ambassador to Washington, suggested a Big Three summit meeting during a conference Thursday with State Secretary Dulles.

The spokesman did not say what reply Dulles made. He did say the question of a Big Three meeting—of the United States, Britain and France—was still envisaged and that if one took place it probably would be held in Washington toward the end of January.

Burnaby Party Safe in Cariboo

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Thomas Mairs of Burnaby, whose husband, son, daughter-in-law and a cousin have been missing three days in the Cariboo area of B.C., said today she has received word that they are safe.

B.C. Airman Died in Bomber Crash

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two airmen killed in Thursday's crash of a B-25 Mitchell bomber were identified by the RCAF today as FO D. G. Oliver, 24, of New Westminster, B.C., and FO R. W. Howe, 24, of Upham, N.B.

CHEK MAY TELECAST
ALL-STAR FOOTBALL

The Shrine East-West football game Saturday will not be telecast live from Vancouver CBLT because of lagging ticket sales. Last-minute efforts are being made today for a temporary microwave setup to permit CHEK-TV of Victoria to carry the telecast. (See TV With Lee, Page 27).

By ADRIAN BALL

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden's prospects of remaining prime minister remained the big subject of speculation in public and private today after 15 Conservative Members of Parliament revolted and refused to back a government confidence vote in the House of Commons.

The refusal of the die-hard "Suez group," who bitterly opposed the decision to withdraw British and French troops from Egypt, to support the government Thursday night led many politicians and newspapers to report a big behind-the-scenes move to topple Eden without bringing down the government. The government won two votes after a two-day debate on its Middle Eastern policy. First it defeated by 327 to 260—a majority of 67—a Labor censure motion.

Then it went on to win the confidence vote 312 to 260—a majority of 52.

The abstention of the 15 Tories was the most serious defection from party ranks since the Neville Chamberlain government fell early in the Second World War.

Suez Rebels Take Solid Stand

The "Suez rebels" have not hidden their belief that Eden, now in Jamaica on a three-weeks rest, should be replaced by a new leader not identified with the Egyptian withdrawal.

Some political observers say party leaders are confident of the future and pleased with the small number of Conservatives who abstained.

Eden will return from Jamaica next Friday.

The government's determination to stay in office despite the dissensions within the party and the Labor opposition's calls to "resign" was made plain by senior ministers during Thursday's debate.

R. A. Butler, lord privy seal, who has been acting as chairman of the cabinet during Eden's absence, declared: "This government has decided against

Jet Crashes; 3 Killed

'Student Aid Vital'
Says Budapest Refugee

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Hungarian students in Austria need help—need all the assistance they can get—a former Budapest student, who spent five years in concentration camp because he opposed the Communist regime, said here today.

The ex-student, Louis Szabo, 34, who helped organize the student revolution in Hungary, arrived here Thursday from Vancouver with a group of 15 young Hungarian refugees aboard the CPR's Princess Joan.

They arrived Tuesday in Vancouver on the "Freedom Express" flight from Austria.

"I was living among 300 students in a particular quarter in Vienna before I came here," he said. "The students need help. They are impoverished."

Mr. Szabo said the Austrian people were doing all they could to help the students and refugees arriving in their country.

"Believe me, the Austrians are wonderful people," he said. "They are poor people who have suffered much due to the war and Russian occupation. They have done all within their power for us, but they can't possibly

Olympics' Dove of Peace
Tattered and Bloodied

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer

MELBOURNE (UP)—The

Olympics are supposed to promote international friendliness but the dove of peace is fluttering nervously over the games today with scorched and tattered wings.

The British are complaining that their Australian cousins haven't been friendly enough. The Japanese receive cheers here and there but their reception is cool on the whole from a people who still remember all too vividly the perils of a decade ago.

And all the bitterness and hatred which flamed in the streets of Budapest are felt whenever the Hungarians "play" the Russians.

The most violent contest of the Olympics undoubtedly occurred in the Hungarian-Russian water polo match. It started in tense bitterness and ended in bloodshed and a near riot.

It was like watching a pool full of tiger sharks. The water in the Olympic pool was chilly but it didn't cool the tempers of the seven determined Hungarians from the moment they looked down the watery field and locked eyes with the Soviet swimmers.

Their voices were rough as they roared the old Hungarian rallying cry:

"Huj huj hajra."

Then they went for the Russians and it was a real battle all the way, above and below both the water line and the belt line.

Of Snow
Forecast

Victoria and most of Vancouver Island will be hit by a blizzard tonight, the second this week.

The gloomy news from the Victoria weather office is based on a storm building up in the North Pacific which appears headed down coast.

Up to five inches of snow are expected to fall overnight, accompanied by winds building up from 15 miles an hour to 30 and 40 miles an hour.

The storm likely will reach its peak around midnight.

TEMPO TO INCREASE

If the Pacific storm follows its expected course, snow will start to fall in flurries late this afternoon and early this evening, gradually increasing in intensity.

Temperatures will rise to about 28 above.

BOATS SCAMPER

All towboats and other small craft are scurrying for shelter. Overnight low at Gonzales weather office was 22, and at Patricia Bay Airport a low of 15 was recorded.

In addition to the Pacific storm, an imbalance of pressures between the coast and the interior of B.C. is adding to Vancouver Island's wintry picture. Pressures in the interior are rising, those along the coast falling, causing a flow of air from east to west.

As the air in the interior is cold, this will keep temperatures here low as well as create strong winds.

CREWS STANDING BY

City engineer J. C. Garnett said at noon his department has men and trucks standing by for snow and ice clearance tonight. "Trucks are loaded with salt and six other trucks are fitted with scrapers."

He said road clearing was Continued on Page 2

Patching West Breach Canada's NATO Goal

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson and Defence Minister Campney leave this weekend for Paris and one of the most important North Atlantic Council meetings in NATO's history.

There are other problems to be considered at the meetings next week, but Canadian officials feel the main one is to patch up holes ripped in the Western alliance by the Middle East crisis—and to seek ways of preventing such breaks in future.

They believe that some of the splits are already mending. As one indication of that, they point to the United States decision to start sending oil to Europe.

Two Years In Prison For Forgery

A Vancouver man who admitted cashing seven expertly forged cheques involving more than $700 at supermarkets in the city and Saanich within a few hours Nov. 23, will spend the next two years in the penitentiary.

George Allan Burrows was sentenced in city police court today to two years on each of five separate charges. The sentences will run concurrently.

Magistrate H. C. Hall also ordered that the sentence be concurrent with the 18-month terms imposed in Saanich court Thursday.

Burrows was sentenced to another 50 days concurrent on three charges arising out of an accident Nov. 17 when his car hit a power pole at Government and Superior.

CLERK'S TIP

He was arrested by a Saanich detective in Vancouver, following a tip from a Victoria bank clerk who happened to see one of the cheques being passed in a Gorge Road store.

Police said the cheques may have been printed on a cheque-writing machine stolen from a city office supplies firm last month.

They were all made out to "H. Stone" over the fictitious account of the Superior Logging Co. on the Bank of Commerce.

Burrows used an unemployment card in the name of H. Stone to cash the cheques.

Burrows said in Saanich court that he wanted to make restitution.

"I did not know that innocent people would have to make up these amounts themselves," he told Magistrate Hall.

suspended today because there was no point in further clearing with more snow expected. Night crews cleared most streets Thursday, leaving a light coating to provide traction for cars. If swept clean the roads would become more icy and more dangerous, he stated.

The engineer said a sudden thaw would present a far more serious hazard than more snow and efforts will be made to keep gutters clear to avoid puddles.

FEW MISHAPS

Cautious drivers continued to keep up a good record during safety week despite road conditions, but two minor accidents were recorded Thursday.

Allan Poole, 13, of 2848 Prior, received cuts and bruises when his sleigh collided with a car at Topaz and Prior. Driver of the car was Rodney Birgenham, 2974 Prior.

Sophie L. Sills, 1250 Newport, was discharged from Royal Jubilee Hospital after treatment for a leg injury received when her car collided in the snow at Oak Bay and Rockland with a car driven by Lyle M. Johnston, 1262 Beach.

At Vancouver the mercury dropped to 15 overnight as British Columbia's lower mainland remained in the grip of a cold spell. Roads were icy in patches from heavy snow falls earlier this week, though the streets of Vancouver were bare. Fraser Valley schools closed Tuesday because of snow, reopened Thursday. High was 26.

Ottawa Waits Word

OTTAWA (CP)—The government still awaited word from the United Nations as to what additional Canadian military personnel will be needed for the Middle East emergency force. Decision was expected today.

REMOTE WATERFALL

The Alexandra waterfall on the Hay River near Great Slave Lake plunges 150 feet.

BACKACHE May be Warning

Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest or that tired-out and heavy-headed feeling may soon follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulates the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills now.

and the man spouted water like a harpooned whale. The Russian threw a punch and, as he was sent to the penalty box, a powerfully built man in the stands rose in his seat and his face was purple as he shook his fists at the Russians.

An angry Russian drove a heel into a Hungarian's stomach and smiled happily as the Hungarian sank with a grimace of pain, bobbing up with a dazed look on his face. A Hungarian swam right over a Russian and then disappeared himself as he was pulled down by the ankles. The water churned over their heads as they thrashed about below the surface.

A Russian smashed his head backwards into eye of a Hungarian, raising a huge red welt. The crowd boomed angrily and then cheered as, with the Russian in the penalty box, Hungary scored to lead, 3-0.

The Hungarians began to "play" the officials and the gallery then, and the Gabor sisters would have been proud of their histrionics. Their faces were offended—but under the water they were busily offensive.

And then, with Hungary leading 4-0, they forgot all about the "game." Fist fights were breaking out all over the pool and it reached a climax when a raging Russian smashed his head into a Hungarian's face and blood streamed from a slashed eyebrow.

Red-hot Hungarians poured down along the edge of the pool. The Russians gathered in a protective knot and police charged along the pool to get the irate spectators back in their seats.

"The final whistle has blown in this match," worried officials announced, cutting short the game.

And, as the Russians walked off through a torrent of abuse, an officer of the Royal Australian Air Force climbed on a seat and roared:

"You ought to be pole-axed! Why don't you go back where you came from?"

(Today, Hungary defeated Yugoslavia in the final, 2-1.) Peace, at the Olympics. It's wonderful.

Olympic Oarsmen Get Gold Watches

Premier Bennett has agreed to a suggestion of Fred Hume, mayor of Vancouver, that the provincial government present $150 gold watches to all 16 members of Canada's two Olympic rowing crews and their coaches.

The watches will be presented at a special dinner for the combined University of British Columbia-Vancouver Rowing Club fours and eights at a dinner here Dec. 17.

LIABILITY

"They believe that as the bills for Suez roll in, the party will quickly discover that Sir Anthony is an electoral liability."

The correspondent of the Beaverbrook's right-wing Daily Express declared that "few MPs are prepared to give Sir Anthony more than 12 weeks longer as prime minister."

One question widely asked is whether Eden had sealed his political fate by leaving the country at a time of crisis. The Spectator, a Conservative magazine of political opinion, expresses this view: "Unquestionably, Jamaica has done more damage than Suez to Sir Anthony Eden."

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Sir Anthony Eden has postponed his visit to New Zealand next month. It was officially announced here today.

Three B.C. Mayors Unopposed

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Of the four B.C. cities having a mayoralty contest in civic elections this year outside Vancouver, three re-elected their mayors Thursday by acclamation.

They are: F. H. Jackson, New Westminster, to his fourth term; E. E. Sendall, Langley, second term, and Mayor R. G. Warner, Slocan City, second term.

Mayor Fred Hume was returned to his fourth term by acclamation in Vancouver, where nominations closed on Dec. 5.

Interest in seats for alderman, councillor and commissioner was marked by the heavy list of candidates.

Only in a few small centres were a slate of council or commission elected by acclamation.

EX-CONSTABLE JAILED 5 YEARS FOR $78,000 POSTAL THEFT

WELLAND, Ont. (CP)—Ex-constable Harry Read, 36, Thursday was sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary for possession of loot from a $78,000 post office theft.

BENNETT PSYCHOLOGY

Lopsided Seat Plan Set for B.C. House

Premier Bennett is planning to use some psychology at next year's session of the Legislature which opens Feb. 7.

It's been reported he wants all government members seated on one side of the legislative chamber, and the 13 opposition members, split into three groups, on the other.

The idea, of course, is to show the strength of the government (39) and the weakness of the opposition.

TWO PLANS

Speaker Thomas Irwin has two seating plans, either of which will bring about the desired effect. He has scoffed at sceptics who say there isn't room to implement the lopsided seating plan.

A new sergeant-at-arms will have to be appointed for the session.

He will be needed to replace Commander E. A. Jamieson who was relieved of his post last session after giving evidence in a legislative committee probing charges of patronage and waste of public money in the construction of the Stewart-Cassiar road.

Employees unanimously approved strike action in secret ballot, first of its kind ever taken by office employees in B.C.

Plant manager R. B. Carpenter said today he will ask for a LRB supervised vote and added "the company is willing to resume negotiations with the clerical workers at any time."

Main point of the contention is that the conciliation award made no provision for overtime payments on statutory holidays. The award offered a $12.50 monthly across-the-board wage increase while the union has asked for $25 monthly. Basic CIL plant rate for office workers is now $165 monthly.

"We have asked for nothing more in the contract than is in any other similar contract," said Al Playfair, president local 15, Office Employees' International Union.

He termed the company attitude "paternalistic."

2 But what happens when he sneezes germs all over the house?

3 Use "Lysol" on floors and walls (protective action lasts 7 full days.)

4 Basins, tubs (and dishes, of course!)

5 Soon he'll be feeling better, and everyone will be happy!

Lysol kills most disease germs it touches

Gets rid of mess, muck, sick-room smells. But why wait for sickness? Add "Lysol" regularly to your cleaning aids and so guard your family's health—all the time! During the sniffle season, Lysol is your family's best friend!
